RECIPROCITY GETS SENATE MAJORITY

Canadian Agreement Measure Was Passed Without Amendment.

MARKS END OF LONG FIGHT

Congressional Practice Will Delay the Affixing of President's Signature —Parliament's Action Is Awaited.

Washington, July 22.—The reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and Canada, embodied in the reciprocity bill that proved a storm center in two sessions of Congress, passed the Senate without amendment today by a vote of 53 to 27. A majority of Republicans voted against it Of 53 votes for it, 32 were Democratic and 21 Republican; of the 27 against 24 were Republicans and three Democrats.

This action settled the whole Canadian reciprocity question so far as Congress is concerned and save for executive approval and the Canadian Parliament's ratification made the pact the law of the land.

Congressional practice will delay the affixing of the President's signature until next Wednesday, when the House is again in session.

The reciprocity bill, having originated in the House, must be returned there for engrossment and for the signature of Speaker Clark while the House is sitting.

The Canadian Parliament has not yet acted on the agreement. With one exception the provisions of the bill as passed by Congress will not become effective until the President issues a proclamation that Canada has ratified the pact. The exception to this procedure is the paper and pulp section of the bill, which, it is announced, will become immediately effective when the President signs the law.

The vote on the bill was as follows:

Republicans against the bill—Borah and Heyburn, Idaho; Bourne, Oregon; Bristow and Curtis, Kansas; Burnham, New Hampshire; Clapp and Nelson, Minnesota; Clark and Warren Wyoming; Crawford and Gamble, S Dakota; Cummins and Kenyon, Iowa; Dixon, Montana; Gronna and McCumber, North Dakota; LaFollette, Wisconsin; Lippitt, Rhode Island; Lorimer, Illinois; Oliver, Pennsylvania; Page, Vermont; Smith, Michigan; Smoot, Utah.

Republicans for the bill—Bradley, Kentucky; Brandegee and McLean, Connecticut; Briggs, New Jersey; Brown, Nebraska; Burton, Ohio; Cane and Lodge, Massachusetts; Cullom, Illinois; Guggenheim, Colorado; Jones and Poindexter, Washington; Nixon, Nevada; Penrose, Pennsylvania; Perkins and Works, California; Richardson; Delaware; Root, New York; Stephenson, Wisconsin; Townsend, Michigan; Wetmore, Rhode Island.

Democrat for the Bill—Bacon, Georgia; Bankhead and Johnston, Alabama; Bryan and Fletcher, Florida; Chamberlain, Oregon; Chilton and Watson, West Virginia; Culberson, Texas; Davis, Arkansas; Foster, Louisiana; Gore and Owen, Oklahoma; Hitchcock, Nebraska; Johnson, Maine; Kern and Shively, Indiana; Martin and Swanson, Virginia; Martine, New Jersey; Myers, Montana; Newlands, Nevada; O'Gorman, New York; Overman, North Carolina; Paynter, Kentucky; Pomerene, Ohio; Reed and Stone, Missouri; Smith, Maryland; Smith, South Carolina; Taylor, Tennessee; Williams, Mississippi.

"I am much gratified that the bill is passed," said President Taft. "It indicates the increase of mutually beneficial relations between Canada and this country."

The President received many congratulations before leaving for Beverly at 5:35 P. M. to spend the week-end. He will be back in Washington Tuesday. Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who led the reciprocity fight in the Senate, dined with the President on board his train tonight. In reply to congratulations the Senator as he made his way through the union station to the President's car, exclaimed: "It was easy."

Senator Penrose ventured the prediction that Congress would adjourn not later than August 9th or 10th.

Bitter Struggle Expected.

A bitter struggle is expected in the Senate next week over the wool tariff. A wool revision bill already has passed the Democratic House. Several substitutes have been ordered in the Senate and a vote will be taken on Thursday next. No sooner had the reciprocity bill passed than Senators began to prepare for the attack on the tariff. The wool bill was made the unfinished business and will be taken up Monday morning. The indications are there will be a Democratic conference before the vote on the bill Thursday. The indications tonight are that the House will be voted down without effort to amend it, and that subsequently the LaFollette wool bill to the House free list bill, to be finally dealt with when the free list vote is taken August 1st.

In the events that led up to the final passage of the reciprocity measure, when amendment after amendment was overwhelmingly defeated, party lines were variously drawn. With one or two exceptions, only the Republican insurgents voted for the amendments, with reinforcements from Senators Bailey, of Texas; Clark, of Arkansas, and Simmons, of North Caroline, Democrats.

Every threatened change in the bill was defeated by the consistent union of Democratic and "regular" Republican forces.

Senator Poindexter, of Washington, and Senator Works, of California, recognized as insurgents, voted against nearly all amendments. The Democratts, with but few exceptions, voted against amendments by Senator Bailey, one to put the farmers' free list in as an amendment to the reciprocity bill, and the other to incorporate a reduction in the tariff on cotton bagging and cotton ties.

John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper, of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, in a statement issued tonight, said:

"The paper section of the bill becomes effective immediately upon approval by the President and paper made from timber cut on privately owned lands will come in duty free without awaiting Canadian action. In that respect it differs from the general reciprocity section which will not go into effect until the President shall proclaim that Canada has reduced its duties in accordance with the agreement between the United States and Canad."

Setting forth what Mr. Norris believes will be the effect of the paper section of the bill, the statement says:

"An important factor in the situation is the removal of uncertainty respecting the tariff on pulp and paper which has, for at least four years deterred investment in paper enterprises. Hitherto, the existing American mills have been comparatively free from fear of competition, because the timber areas tributary to available water power in the United States had been acquired for speculative holdings.

"The cheapening of timber value in the United States is also a factor in the situation. The opening of large pulp wood areas in the Canadian provinces should break the artifically inflated price of pulp stumpage in the United States.

"The daily output of newsprint paper averages 4,000 tons. Within two years new installations should add approximately 1,600 tons per day to the supply. Such an addition ought to restore competitive conditions."

FIRED TEN SHOTS INTO CROWDED CAR

Syrian Ran Amuck Killing Two Persons and Wounding Three Others.

EXCITEMENT AT NORTH ADAMS

Drew Automatic Revolver and Emptied It Into Shrieking Crowd—Police Believe Him Suddenly Insane.

North Adams, Mass., July 22.—Infuriated at the command of the motorman to get back from the running board and remain in his seat until the car stopped, Faldo Mallak, a Syrian, 21 years old, suddenly drew an automatic revolver and fired ten shots into a crowded electric car on the Cheshire Street Railway Company line today, instantly killing the motorman, Geo. E. Hoyt, of Pittsfield, and Miss Martha Esler, aged 21, of Adams, wounding two women probably fatally and severely injuring three other women.

Mrs. Stephen L. A. Hall, of Adams, was shot in the right shoulder and Mrs. Alice Bryant, of Cheshire, wounded in the neck, are the two dangerously wounded.

As he fired the last of the shots Mallak was seized by J. J. Mooney, of Pittsfield, who took away the revolver. Drawing a knife, the Syrian jumped from the running board down an embankment, where he was captured by other passengers.

There were about 60 people on the car when Mallak, who sat directly behind the motorman, signalled the conductor to get off. He stood on the running board as the car slowed up. The motorman cautioned him about getting off while the car was in motion, telling him to get back to his seat.

Just as the car stopped Mallak pulled out a 38 calibre, ten-shot automatic revolver and began firing. He aimed the first bullet directly at the back of the motorman and then turned upon the women passengers in the seats behind him and fired point blank until his revolver was emptied.

Mallak refused to talk after his arrest. The police believe he went suddenly insane.

Durham, N. C., July 22.—John Vickers, a farmer belonging to a widely known Durham family, committed suicide tonight by cutting his throat with a razor. He had been despondent for several weeks.

SPRECKLES TELLS OF THE SUGAR WAR

Most Sensational Testimony That Has Developed During the Hearings.

THE UNDER HAND METHODS

Told How Persons Threw Sand in the Machinery Bearings and Otherwise Wrecked the Plant. Then the Climax.

New York, July 22.—Claus Augustus Spreckles, son of the Claus Spreckles, of California, and principal owner of the Federal Sugar Refining Company, of Yonkers, N. Y., today gave the most sensational testimony that has developed during the hearings before the Congressional Committee investigating the sugar trust.

Besides giving a most important sidelight on the conference between John Arbuckle and the late H. O. Havemeyer, which is believed to have ended the great sugar war, he described under oath the vicissitudes of an independent sugar refiner. He said that his plant in Philadelphia, before it was controlled by the trust, had been put out of commission several times by persons who threw sand in the machinery bearings and otherwise wrecked the plant. He swore that at the Yonkers refinery after he had turned down trust overtures, dead rats were placed in barrels of sugar ready for shipment and that whole vats of liquid sugar had been drained off in the night into sewers. The nuisance of dead rates continued until private detectives pointed out a number of his employes whom he discharged, refusing to pay their wages in the hope that they would sue him and thus enable him to question them under oath as to who had employed them. Much to his disappointment he was never sued.

Mr. Spreckles declared that H. O. Havemeyer, Theodore A. Havemeyer and John E. Searles, all then officers of the American Sugar Refining Company, and now dead, purchased a half interest in all of the California refineries to end the Spreckles sugar war for $2,225,000 in cash and six months later sold this interest to the American Sugar Refining Company for $5,000,000 in preferred stock, which at that time was worth $120 a share, or $6,000,000.

Interesting points in Mr. Spreckles' testimony included his assertion that in four years he had made $2,000,000 in a Hawaiian sugar plantation on a cash investment of $10,000. Since starting the Federal refinery ten years ago by a cash payment of $3,500,000 for equipment, he has paid 6 per cent. dividends on that $3,500,000 regularly, he declared, representing the preferred stock and has turned earnings amounting to an equal amount back into the improvement of the plant.

Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, asked Mr. Spreckles if he knew anything about the conference between John Arbuckle and H. O. Havemeyer, which was supposed to have ended the sugar war.

"Yes, something," he said. "Soon after that conference, John Arbuckle came to me and said: 'I've just had a little talk with Henry O. Havemeyer. He said an understanding had been reached; that there was an overproduction of sugar and asked me if I would reduce the output of the Federal. I told him the Federal would work to its full capacity forever. He said: "You misunderstand Havemeyer, just like I did. He is a fine, cultivated man—why he plays the violin.'

"'So did Nero play the violin' said I, 'and Rome burned'."

"Did you understand from John Arbuckle that he had reached an agreement with Havemeyer and the American Sugar Refining Company that the production of sugar was to be reduced "

"Yes, he said that he and the American had buried the hatchet."

"Did anyone else ever try to get you to reduce the production of sugar?"

"Yes, Mr. Warner, of the American company. He said he would create better feeling among the refiners generally and that an understanding could be reached. I think that both Arbuckle and Warner were sent by the American Sugar Refining Company to get me to enter an agreement."

DURHAM TIGERS SENTENCED.

Brodie Duke's Father-in-Law Gets Six Months—Judge Scores Jury.

Durham, N. C., July 22.—Judge Allen today sentenced all convicted bland tigers, including Leander Rochelle, father of Mrs. Brodie Duke who received six months in jail and costs. He moved for a new trial, was denied and appealed to the Supreme Court.

Judge Allen scored the grand jury for its acquittal of one whom he denominated "the guiltiest of them all," Steven Chandler, brother of a policeman on the local force, who is believed to have backing from wholesalers in other States.

Raleigh, N. C., July 22.—A telegram was received from Edgar M. Hall, of Newport News, Va., tonight to the effect that he had accepted the call to become general secretary of the Raleigh Y. M. C. A. Mr. Hall was recently re-elected secretary of the Newport News Y. M. C. A.

PROHIS LEADING IN TEXAS CONTEST

Three-Fourths of Votes Counted and Result is Very Close.

STATE IS PROBABLY "DRY"

Returns From All Large Towns and Rural Districts Are Against Saloon—The Earlier Figures at Dallas.

Dallas, Texas, July 22.—With what is estimated to be three-fourths of the votes cast in today's liquor election counted, the prohibitionists are leading by the narrow margin of 3,461, according to the returns of The News. Up to midnight 339,773 votes had been accounted for. Returns from all the larger towns are in and as the rural districts are against the saloon it seems a safe prediction at this time that the State has gone "dry."

The prohibitionists, as was expected, received a heavy majority in the blackland counties of north Texas.

The anti-prohibitionists got their majorities almost exclusively in south Texas counties and in some of them they were smaller than had been expected. Perhaps the greatest disappointment for the anti-prohibitionists was in the vote of the cities. In San Antonio, or Bexar county, the antis' majority seems to have been only about 8,000. In the city of Dallas the anti majority was only 1,600. In Tarrant county the anti majority up to 12 o'clock was not over 800. Of the larger towns Palestine, Greenville, Denton, McKinney, Sulphur Springs, Gainesville and Jacksonville went dry. Daco's anti majority was only a little more than 300.

Dallas, Texas, July 22.—Returns received by the Dallas News up to 9:40 o'clock show a majority for the prohibitionists of about 13,000. This is a total of about 140,000 votes, probably one-third of the vote polled. Returns from which these totals are made are rather more from prohibition than from anti-prohibition territory. They include no returns from the cities and the larger towns and are, therefore, indicative of an anti-prohibition victory, though it will require much fuller returns to warrant any prediction.

BITTEN BY RATTLESNAKE.

Negroes Terrorized by Whites at Lumber Camp—Other News.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, July 22. — Mrs. Lou Bright, who lives to the north of Whiteville, last Sunday went into her corn crib and was bitten on the hand by a rattlesnake pilot, the most venomous of snakes. Prompt attention was given and her life was saved.

The permanent railroad the Whiteville Lumber Co., is building to Reaves Ferry has the iron laid within three miles of the Waccamaw river, and the work of grading the balance of the road-bed is progressing. This road is built for permanent use, and when completed will be turned into a regular freight and passenger road. The building of this line will develop a fine farming section, now almost an uncleared wilderness.

The Whiteville Lumber Company offered a reward of $100 to any person or persons who will secure the arrest, and evidence to convict, the party or parties, who made an assault on their empolyes at Whiteville, N. C., and who, at the same time, shot into their camps on the night of July 18th.

Whiteville is the name of a camp on their Reaves Ferry railroad, and at which a number of negroes employed in the work of grading the road-bed are staying. On the night in question certain unknown men fired a volley into the camp from shot guns, scattering the blacks into the bushes. None was seriously hurt, but one was struck on side of face by shot. The next day 16 of the negroes quit work, being thoroughly terrorized. It seems that certain white men living in that section are determined that no negroes shall live or work in their township, and they have organized a gang to frighten and run away any colored people who invade the prescribed territory. These whites will not grade the road themselves, and are determined that the company shall not employ negroes to do the work. The better class of people living in that section condemn such outrages, and will lend their aid to the company in bringing the shooters to punishment.

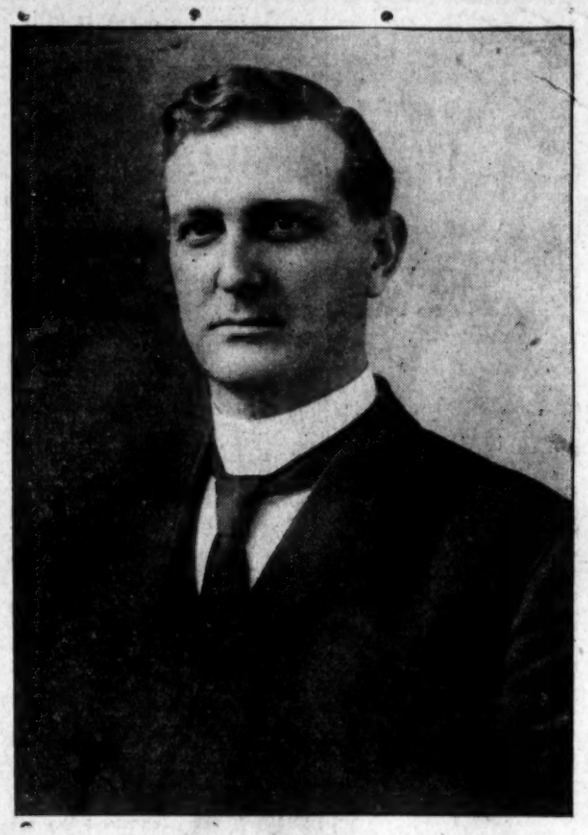
REPLIES TO CRITICS



GOV. KITCHIN DEFENDS HIS POSITION ON TRUSTS

Answers Attack of Raleigh Paper and Messrs. Misenheimer and Lockhart, Reviewing His Course Before Legislature With Reference to Trusts.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., July 22.—Governor Kitchin issued today his expected reply to the attacks made on him in the Raleigh morning paper through the M. L. Meisenheimer, J. A. Lockhart letter and the editorial of Editor Josephus Daniels impeaching the sincerity of the Governor in his anti-trust professions as contradicted by his course since he has been Governor. The reply comprises a number of quotations from his inaugural address and messages to the Legislature. The Governor says:

Editor News and Observer:—I have this to say in reply to the joint attack of yourself and Messrs. Lockhart and Misenheimer, which is in accord with other unfair attacks on your part.

When the Legislature of 1909 met, I was hopeful that a thorough anti-trust bill would pass. After learning the sentiment of the Senate, I became thoroughly satisfied that it was impossible to get any trust measure through the Senate beyond the requirements of the platform. On the night of February 1, 1909, one of the best informed gentlemen of the Senate said to me that when the Lockhart bill came from the committee, after his speech, a motion to lay the bill on the table would be made and carried, and that would end trust legislation for that session. A Senator present shared that opinion. I promptly replied that that would never do and read the platform to them and declared its requirements must be performed. They both agreed with me. The Lockhart bill had been some time prior thereto introduced. A short time thereafter, Senator Lockhart, upon my request, came to see me with Senator Nimocks to talk over the situation—the only conference I ever had with these two gentlemen. Our conference was full, frank, and unreserved, all of us agreeing on what ought to be done and all doubtful whether anything could be done. I have a copy of a letter written on April 6, 1909, within thirty days after that Legislature adjourned, which compelled me then to recall that conference, and I remember much of it.

I asked Senator Lockhart what were the chances of his bill passing the Senate. He replied that counting all the doubtful men, he could muster only 22 Senators in its support. I stated that from my talk with various Senators, I had also concluded we would not secure the passage of his bill. I distinctly remember repeating to them the conversation which occurred in my office on the night of February 1st above mentioned. After Senator Lockhart, Senator Nimocks and myself had canvassed the situation, my clear recollection is that it was our unanimous opinion that a comprehensive bill could not pass. I stated that if the Legislature did not enact the substance of our State platform that the party would probably be defeated in the next campaign. To this they assented. It was finally understood that Senator Lockhart would eliminate from his bill its parts which were already the law, he having substantially copied the original Reid-Justice bill, and that we would all strive at any cost to have the platform declaration enacted. I then stated that I had been contemplating sending a special message to the Legislature on the subject and asked Senator Lockhart if he made the eliminations mentioned, would he deem a special message necessary. He replied, "Yes, and as hot as you can make it, for it would be hard to put the ten commandments through the Senate."

As I said above, the conference was for the purpose of accomplishing something against trusts. I recall no difference in sentiment between Senator Lockhart, Senator Nimocks and myself, the question being whether we should contend for a particular bill and accomplish nothing, or try to accomplish the best possible legislation, and when our conference adjourned I was not aware that we differed upon the latter policy. The statement of Mr. Lockhart that I ever at any time said that I hoped nothing would be done, is untrue and is contrary to my inaugural address, my interview, my special message below cited, and the very purpose of our conference. The remark of the gentleman in Durham was made in March, 1907, two years prior to the conference, and was to show the kind of argument to be expected in the contest for anti-trust legislation. Senator Lockhart knows that I did not endorse that statement, for I added that I at once told the gentlemen that if sub-section A had passed in 1907 and any property in Durham had been for sale at 50 cents on the dollar, I would have raised every dollar I could to invest in it. His statement that I said that Mr. Reid was defeated on account of his anti-trust record is not true. I never thought his trust record had anything to do with Senator Reid's defeat, but always know his defeat was on account of the local issue in regard to the location of the court house, and his splendid anti-trust record was not sufficient to save him from the disastrous effect of the purely local issue, and I am positive that I never made a statement about it which I knew to be untrue. I have no idea that I made any statement that I was nominated on my personality, as I am not apt to have made a statement which I did not believe, nor did I state that the people of North Carolina wanted nothing done. This, too, is contrary to my message, my interview and the object of the conference.

In considering the chances of getting anti-trust legislation enacted we discussed the apparent opposition from various tobacco centers in former legislative contests, but whatever was said along this line was in illustration of the argument to be encountered and which had already apparently put a majority of the Senate against the Lockhart bill. We agreed that the surest way to accomplish something was to insist upon the declaration of the Democratic platform, embodying the vital principle of famous sub-section A. I will add that I never had a secret opinion about this subject at any time.

The statement that any man in the Legislature was authorized to speak for me (outside of my message) is untrue and it was never reported to me that any one claimed or exercised such authority. Senator Lockhart has simply been dreaming. If it should be presumed that any one was authorized to represent my views, the natural presumption would be that my brother was, and he favored and as chairman reported as a substitute for the bill that passed the Senate the entire Texas Anti-Trust law introduced by Representative Koonce.

CORONER'S VERDICT AGAINST BEATTIE

Richmond Man Charged with Wife Murder and Placed in Henrico Jail.

COUSIN AND WOMAN ARE HELD

Young Beattie Re-arrested When Verdict Was Rendered—Binford Woman Fainted at Hearing Decision—Features.

Richmond, Va., July 22.—The expected has happened in the case of the killing of Mrs. Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., while she was automobiling with her husband on the Midlothian turnpike, near Richmond, last Tuesday night. The coroner's jury, at 3:35 o'clock this afternoon, reached the following verdict:

"We, the gentlemen of the jury selected by the coroner on July 19th, 1911, and duly sworn, on view of the body of Mrs. Louise Owen Beattie, to inquire when, where and by what means the said Louise Beattie came to her death, do, on our oath, find that the said Louise Owen Beattie came to her death on the night of July 18, 1911, between 10:45 and 11 o'clock, on the Midlothian turnpike, at a point about three miles west of Richmond, one and a fourth miles west of the colored church, as a result of a gunshot wound, the same being fired by her husband, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr.

(Signed)

J. G. LOVING, Coroner.
J. G. ROBERTSON, Foreman.
J. T. COUSIN,
W. A. JACOBS,
JOHN A. MORTON,
CLAYTON LERBY,
P. C. YERBY, Jr.

Immediately on the rendering of the verdict young Beattie was re-arrested on the charge of murder and taken before Magistrate Jacob. He waived examination and was at once placed in an automoblie and taken to the Henrico county jail, which is within the limits of Richmond city, and placed there for safe-keeping. It was at first thought he would be taken to Chesterfield county jail, but fear of trouble there caused the officers to bring him to this city.

Commonwealth's Attorney Gregory announced after the verdict had been rendered that he would insist upon Paul Beattie's furnishing a heavy bond for his appearance as a witness for prosecution or be detained in prison.

Paul Beattie is the cousin of Henry Beattie, who purchased for Henry and delivered to him, the gun with which the killing was done.

Beulah Binford, the "woman in the case," affection for whom on the part of Henry Beattie is supposed to have been the motive for the killing of Mrs. Beattie, was also required to furnish heavy bond or be held in jail as a witness for the commonwealth.

On hearing this decision she fainted. On reviving, however, she was taken, with Paul Beattie, to the Henrico county jail for safe-keeping.

The great crowd at the inquest surged and fierce mutterings were heard, but no attempt was made to interefer with the removal of the prisoners.

Paul Beattie Chief Witness.

Paul Beattie, who made the confession yesterday as to buying the gun, was the chief witness at the inquest today. On being sworn he stated that he had been quite sick and in a hospital since yesterday and was still in bad shape. He had to be helped along as he walked to the stand. He was a first cousin of H. C. Beattie, he said, and was employed as a watchman on Mayo's bridge. Mr. Wendenburg, counsel for commonwealth, picked up the gun from the coroner's table.

"Where did that come from?" he asked.

"It looks like the one I bought," answered Beattie in a low voice. "I bought it on last Saturday afternoon."

"The crime occurred on Tuesday night of this week," said Mr. Wendenburg. "You mean that you bought this gun on Saturday previous to that?"

"Yes. Last Saturday."

"How much did you pay for it?"

"Either $2 or $2.50. I don't remember which. I got it at a pawn shop."

"Whose place was it?"

"It was on Sixth street, the first one you come to from Broad."

"Well, tell all about it—how did you come to buy it?"

"My cousin, Henry Beattie, called me up one afternoon and asked me to meet him at Short and Main streets, and I met him there, and he asked me to get him a shot gun. He didn't tell what for and I didn't think there was any harm in buying it. I went over to Beattie's store on Saturday night and told him I had picked out one, and he came over in his automobile on Saturday night and got it. We left the Beattie store at 10 o'clock Saturday night. He stopped the car on Sixth street, this side of Broad to fix the lights, and asked me to go on over to the pawn shop and get the gun, and I did."

"Where did you get the money?"

"He gave me $4 the night he called me and met me at Short and Main streets."

"Did he ask you to buy him some

Two of the best games seen this season was the treat served up to those who journeyed to the ball park yesterday afternoon to witness the 12th scheduled double-header in the City League.

It was high-class ball from the time Montgomery stepped to the plate in the first session and at the call of "play ball" made, his was to the initial sack on a scratchy hit to the infield, which he beat out because of its slowness. McClellan let two go by him permitting Montgomery to amble around to the third sack, whence he scored the opening run of a decidedly interesting game when Mintz hit a ground ball to Taylor at short. In the effort to cut Ben off at the plate Mintz was allowed to reach first, but when he tried to pilfer the second station his hopes were cut off by McClellan's perfect throw across the diamond. Gore slammed a hot one between first and second which Parker tried hard to capture unsuccessfully; but McClellan again exhibited his throwing ability when Gore attempted to steal. The round was over, but the Boys' Brigade had opened up with a rush and things looked dark for the Soldiers, especially as they went down in one, two, three order.

At this stage, however, a young gentleman by the name of Whitehead stepped into the breach and shut down on the run getting proclivities of that hustling bunch of Brigadies. For the next eight innings not a single opponent was allowed to hit a safe one of the nine batsmen who reached first, only two managed to advance as far as the second station. He pitched high-class ball and was well supported by his team mates.

In the second round the Soldiers had evened up matters. With one down Gore reached first when Montgomery foozled his pop fly to short. He immediately pilfered a bag and scored from that corner when Tom Taylor slammed a healthy two-bagger over Davis' head in left garden.

Neck and neck they ran until the eighth, when, with time nearly up, Gore again started things by reaching first on Montgomery's error of his hot one, going to third on McClellan's single to right and racing across with the winning run when Taylor made his third hit of the game, slamming a single to left.

The Second Game.

The second game developed into one of those hair-raising, heart-rending, extra-inning affrays that keep the fans on edge until his Umps must necessarily send them home on account of darkness. This one did not go quite so far because "Pomp" Green broke it up in the tenth after two men were down. Right here it would be well to remark that "Pomp" appeared on the mound after an absence of several weeks, performing in his usual creditable style, and incidentally, won his own game by sending in all of his team's tallies with his two timely bingles, in each case after two men had been retired. Hines, for the Y. M. C. A., held his reputation by pitching bang-up ball.

As usual, the Railroaders started things. Starritt singled to left and was sent around to third when Gus Wright followed with a single to right. After Gus had swiped second, Emerson sent a long one into Bergen's glove in left field and then Green, with two down, slammed a single to right, scoring Starritt and Wright.

In the third the Associationists edged up a little when Trust gained first on a throw of his ground ball to second to catch Hines, who had been presented with four bad ones. In the effort to make a double, Hines let the throw get away from him and Trust journeyed on to second, later stealing third and scoring on Gus Wright's throw to the outfield in an effort to head him off at third.

In the fourth they came back with one more, when Carraway led off with a single, stole second and romped all the way home when Wright again threw to the outfield in an effort to stop the steal.

After that it was tight, with thrills, tight pinches, critical moments, fast plays and constant enthusiasm in the stands, in fact, everything that one looks for in baseball.

It would be difficult to pick stars, but one at least, needs mention. Jones, formerly of the Railroaders, at short for the Y. M. C. A., played a fast, faultless game, taking and accepting all kinds of chances and far outpointing his opponent, Taylor, who formerly held that field down for the Triangle boys.

In the tenth the Y. M. C. A. put on their only errors, when bingles by Childs and Carraway, along with a stolen base, sent Gus Wright to third, when, after two were down, Green sent him home with the winning tally by a healthy single to right.

LAKE SIDE PARK SUBURB

Ambitious Plan of Southern Realty and Development Company to Build An Annex to Greater Wilmington.

Mr. T. L. Moran, of Norfolk, Va., is now in the city and will travel for and in the interest of the Southern Realty and Development Company, of Wilmington. This company has its office at 204 Princess street, and in addition to its other real estate transactions it will develop Lake Side Park, just on the southern limits of the city. The property is on the fine macadam highway leading from the city toward Federal Point, and which road is to join the county plan to make an automobile belt by way of the Wrightsville turnpike.

The Southern Realty and Development Company has on foot quite an extensive and ambitious plan to make Lake Side Park one of Wilmington's most beautiful and desirable residence suburbs.

Surveys have been made for the town, and the lots will be placed on sale in the city at the company's office and by traveling representatives who will visit towns in the Carolinas and make attractive offers to home seekers and investors.

Mr. Moran will travel in this interest and has been brought here because of his successful and long experience in handling similar propositions. This is his first visit to Wilmington and when seen by a Star representative he expressed astonishment at the thrift and prosperity of the city and after having been shown the city's substantial evidence of commerce and industrial growth and being an eyewitness to the great throngs passing through on the suburban line to Wrightsville Beach he declared that he had never seen a Southern city with so many conspicuous possibilities for substantial expansion and material development.

The company which is promoting Lake Side has issued a large amount of advertising matter and it will be distributed broadcast as the plot and prospectus of the town is displayed by its traveling men, some of whom have already gone on the road.

Officers of the company are as follows: A. W. Pate, president; J. W. Powell, Jr., secretary and treasurer; D. N. Chadwick, Jr., vice president and general manager.

Children's Souvenir Dance.

The children's souvenir dance that is to take place at Lumina tomorrow night, about which mention has already been made in these columns, will no doubt attract an unusually large crowd. The children's affairs at Lumina have always proved very popular to children and grown people alike, and now with the beach season at its height and so many families living at the beach, the affair tomorrow night can not fail to attract the little ones in great numbers. It should be understood that the regular dance follows the dance for the children, which ends at 9 o'clock.

South Wilmington Giants Won.

The South Wilmington Giants and the Delgado baseball team played a double-header on the diamond of the former yesterday afternoon. The first game resulted in a victory for the Giants by the decisive score of 9 to 4. Hankins was on the slab for the Giants and Skipper for Delgado. The second game run for 10 innings, and the tie remains unbroken as the game was called on account of the illness of one of Delgado's pitchers. The score was 4 to 4. Holloman pitched for Delgado and Griffith for South Wilmington.

BASEBALL AT BEACH.

Hotel Teams Pull Off Four-Innings Farce — Exciting Contest.

(Contributed.)

Friday afternoon on the beach in front of the Seashore Hotel in a four-inning farce, staged under the title of "The Seashore Mutts vs. the Oceanic Tigers," the Tigers defeated the Mutts to the tune of 5 to 2.

The contest was scheduled to go nine full innings, but it was allowed to die a natural death after the fourth inning, due, it is alleged, to the Tigers suffering a frosty sensation in the region of their pedal extremities.

"Jim McGee, who says he is late of the New York Nationals, pitched a very defective game, though he was strong in the pinches. Henry Taylor, the Tiger's short, played a star game, but on account of the fact of his stockings not matching he failed to play up to his usual standard on the "Lakenook Cubs." "Rags" Satzsky also starred in the field for the Tigers, having four chances and making six errors. Unfortunately he was injured in running after a line drive when his kimona became tangled around his legs, throwing him to the ground. At last reports he was doing very well.

The playing of Tobe Martin, who is known as the "White Man's Hope," at short, Joe Callihan, at second, and Jentyen at third, was phenomenal. Callahan was protected from the sun by his sunshade but Jentyen came near being worked to death, essaying to play without a shade.

Miss Pearson relieved "Fat" Bluenthal in the box for the Mutts, the latter retiring from the game on account of sore feet and need of a surf bath.

The line-up of the teams was as follows: Mutts, Einstein, 1b and 2b; Bluenthal, p; Pearson, p; Roseman, ss; Bagley, 2b; Ansley, lf; Jones, cf; Keel, c. Tigers: McGee, p; Callihan, 2b; Satzsky, lf; Taylor, 1b; Martin, ss; Jentyen, 3b; Sheridan, c; Foster, cf; Mattehws, c.

There were present a large number from both hotels. The uniforms of the teams were "quite artistic" and evoked considerable comment from the spectators.

The Excessive Heat.

Yesterday was again one of the "warmest numbers" of the season, the thermometer having reached a maximum of 92 degrees during the day. However, Wilmington was by no means the "warmest" on the map, the Weather Bureau reporting Raleigh 94 degrees, Charlotte 92 and Charleston 92 degrees maximum for the 24 hours ended at 8 o'clock last night, while Abilene, Texas, reported a maximum of 102 degrees with the conditions partly cloudy.

A CARD.

We desire to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to the kind friends who ministered unto us in so many acts and expressions of kindness, attending the suffering and death of our infant daughter, Irene. We esteem it a privilege to invoke God's richest blessings upon them.

Respectfully,

LOWERS TIME FOR LONG SWIM

Mr. Alan Mills Swims From Masonboro Inlet to Moore's Inlet in One Hour and 29 Minutes. Over Three Miles.

Mr. Alan B. Mills, of New York, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, now with the firm of Horsey & Mills, Inc., of this city, made a phenomenal swim yesterday afternoon in the ocean off Wrightsville Beach, swimming from Masonboro inlet, south of Lumina, to Moore's inlet, north of the Oceanic Hotel, a distance of something over three and a quarter miles, in one hour and 29 minutes.

By this feat Mr. Mills excels that of Mr. Carl Gibbs, a Tennessee banker, who several weeks ago swam from inlet to inlet in exactly two hours. Not only did Mr. Mills make better time than Mr. Gibbs, but he also swam a greater distance, starting right from the middle of Masonboro inlet, in the breakers, making his swim about a quarter of a mile longer than Mr. Gibbs'.

Mr. Mills was accompanied by Mr. E. C. Elceleyer, Mr. Thos. Strange, of Wilmington, and Mr. B. S. Mills, his brother, also of Wilmington, in the launch Atlas, Capt. J. W. Whealton. Mr. Elceleyer is a member of the Missouri Athletic Club and is a champion long distance swimmer himself. He won the ten-mile swim in the A. A. U. events on the Mississippi river on Labor Day, 1907. He coached Mr. Mills while on the trip and after the swim was completed he declared that he considered it a phenomenal record considering the rough sea. It is said that the rollers were so bad yesterday afternoon that the water constantly came in over the side of the boat.

Mr. Mills entered the water at 5:15 yesterday afternoon and finished his long swim promptly at 6:42. He appeared as fresh at the finish as when he entered the water.

The time made yesterday afternoon is probably the record over the same course and very likely for any swim ever made at the beach. Mr. Mills was warmly congratulated by his friends on the splendid feat.

THIRD REGATTA OF SERIES.

Class A Boats Sailed Over Course of Carolina Yacht Club.

The third race of the season of Class A boats of the Carolina Yacht Club for the Walters-Jones trophy was sailed yesterday afternoon, beginning at 4 o'clock. There were a large number of spectators. The race was won by Capt. John VanB. Metts, sailing boat No. 68, with Capt. P. W. Davis, sailing No. 65, a close second. It was nip and tuck with these two boats throughout the race. Capt. Davis was ahead at the beginning, but was overtaken by Capt. Metts, who secured a good lead, but in a short time Capt. Davis again forged ahead. However, just before the close Capt. Metts succeeded in getting in the lead again and won the race. Next in order were the following: No. 66, sailed by Capt. J. Stevenson Brown, third; No. 63, sailed by Capt. Edwin Metts, fourth; No. 69, sailed by Capt. R. G. Rankin, fifth; No. 67, sailed by Capt. B. H. Bridgers, sixth; "Coquet", sailed by Capt. Irving Corbett, seventh.

GAMES AT DELGADO.

The Fast Local Team Took Double Header Yesterday.

Among the fastest amateur teams in the city must be ranked the Delgado Cotton Mill team, which to date has won 11 games out of a possible 13 played. They defeat one and all alike, taking victory as a matter of course, and furnishing some fine exhibitions of the pastime.

Yesterday afternoon they took both chapters of a doubleheader from the "Rabbit Drivers," a team whose origin is not known, but likely developed itself somewhere around Smith's Creek or the tributary swamps. The first session was presided over by Wilson and Orrell, for Delgado, and Jacobs and Houston, for the "R. Ds." and the score was a shut out, 9 to 0. In the second act the batteries were Canady and Patterson and Houston and Matthews, the tally this time being 6 to 3 in favor of Delgado.

Collins Forfeits Bond.

Joe Collins, charged with violating the prohibition law, and who was out under $100 bond, failed to appear at trial before Justice Harriss yesterday and thus forfeited his bond.

John Bradshaw, the chief witness against Collins, was committed to jail for ten days by Justice Harriss for contempt of court in failing to attend as a witness in the trial Friday. It was on account of his absence that the hearing was postponed until yesterday. The specific charge against him was that he entered into a collusion with the defendant for the purpose of defeating the ends of justice.

The Recorder's Court.

In the Recorder's court yesterday James Freenman, colored, charged with assaulting a female, was let off on payment of costs. Hawley Thronton, white, was taxed $5 and costs for being drunk and down and also required to pay an old fine standing against him or take 60 days on the county roads. A. R. Nance, white, charged with riding a bicycle on the sidewalks, was let off with costs.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrelson, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough. I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything, I could hear of, for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and all bronichal affections. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at R. R. Bellamy.

Mrs. Ham was a young woman of beautiful Christian character and hundreds of friends will mourn her passing. DEATH AT WALLACE.

Mrs. Elizabeth Graham Passes Away. Funeral Thursday Afternoon.

(Pender Chronicle.)

Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Graham, widow of the late Dr. D. McL. Graham, died at her home in Wallace Wednesday night at 10:20 o'clock and will be buried at the old Rock Fish cemetery Thursday evening. Death came as a welcomed relief to her suffering, she having been paralyzed for nearly two years and confined to her bed for the past nine months.

Besides her aged mother, Mrs. Murphy, of Burgaw, who is herself nearly 88 years old, Mrs. Graham leaves three children, Dr. B. R. Graham, of Wallace, and Mr. A. McL. Graham and Mrs. Henry A. Grady, of Clinton. She also leaves two brothers, Dr. Walter Murphy, of Washington, and Judge J. D. Murphy, of Asheville; and five sisters, Mrs. Ferrell of Clinton, and Mrs. M. M. Moore and Mrs. E. McMooro, Mrs. J. R. Bannerman and Miss Maggie Murphy, of Burgaw.

Mrs. Graham was the oldest member of the family, being 67 years of age. Her death was especially sad for Mrs. Murphy, who lost her youngest child, Mr. H. F. Murphy, only a few months ago.

Quite a number of relatives from Burgaw went up to Wallace Thursday to attend the funeral.

WEEK'S NEWS AT LUMBERTON

Town Tax Rate Reduced—Strange Freak of Lightning—Personal and General News Notes of Interest.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., July 22.—There is cause for much rejoicing among the tax-payers of Lumberton. The town authorities have found that more bond taxes were being collected than was necessary to meet the payment of bonds when they became due, and as a result the tax rate on property for bond purposes has been reduced from 83 cents on the $100 worth of property to 58 cents, and the poll tax has for the same purpose been reduced from $2.49 to $1.70, basing the calculation on 380 polls.

This, it is said, will cause a saving to the tax payers of the town of $3,300.20. That sounds good to the people who have much or little property to pay taxes on. Let the good work go on. So far we have heard of no kicking against this proposition. Remarkable.

We noticed a farmer unloading corn yesterday which was a part of last year's crop he had brought to market. He said he was only a small farmer, only planted 14 acres in corn last year, but after feeding two mules, his cows and pigs, he had sold a little more than 200 bushels. He said he only had 10 acres in corn this year from which he expected to gather 800 bushels. Just one block farther up the street we saw another farmer unloading a car load of home-raised hams and shoulders. He said he had plenty of it—just brought it along to trade on, and would bring more when he came to town again. It's no use to "go West". Just come to Robeson county where land is plentiful and good. We have been living in this county the greater part of 50 years, and do not remember ever seeing such fine prospects for a corn crop as the present.

The new water tank at the Seaboard station has been completed and is now in use, the old tank having been torn down and removed, the car house for the section force has been moved several feet further up the track, and everything thereabout cleaned up, making the station look like another place. Foreman Pickett, who has charge of the work, says it is the best tank he has ever built, and barring accidents, will be there when most of the present population of Lumberton has passed away. It is a good, substantial job.

A horse belonging to J. H. Wishart died Wednesday night from the effect of the intense heat. The horse has not been driven out of a walk, and was simply overcome by the intense heat. While he was well advanced in years he was one of the best delivery horses in town. Mr. Wishart said he would not have considered an offer for $200 for the horse the day before he died.

We have often heard of strange freaks of lightning, but it played a trick on a gentleman residing in the country a few miles from here last week which is entitled to mention. A thunder storm was on and the gentleman was in the house, playing with his children on the bed. The lightning struck a telephone pole a short distance from the house and followed the wire into the building, burning the phone out, knocked off three or four pieces of ceiling and shook up things generally. In the corner of the next room, not over three feet from the place where the gentleman and children were playing, was a closet in which there was a number of bottles, fruit jars, etc. In this assortment was a quart bottle full of good whiskey which had been in the house for at least two years, but after the smoke had cleared away it was found that the whiskey was no more as the stroke had broken the bottle. We do not recall the time if we ever heard of lightning striking anything like that before.

We have heard several gentlemen discuss the Bellamy-Godwin Congressional affair and the general impression seems to be that one of them has the wrong impression. If Mr. Bellamy has got the idea that Mr. Godwin will not be a candidate if his health will permit it, he must have been dreaming. At least that is the opinion of some people.

On August 1st, Mr. C. B. Redmond will move his Parlor Grocery to the old Norment store, corner 2nd and Elm streets. Mr. Redmond vacatess the building which he has occupied for the past ten years in order that it may be remodeled and enlarged. Part of the material is already on the ground for making the improvements and it is expected that work will begin as soon as Mr. Redmond moves out.

Next Tuesday night the Infant Class of the Methodist Sunday School will be given free tickets to the motion picture show and it is hoped that they will turn out in full force as no pains will be spared to give them an evening of pleasure.

J. D. McMillan & Son have now on display in their large show windows one of the finest displays of cut glass ever brought to this town. If there is anything new going which is handled by first-class drug stores, it will always be found at McMillan's.

The town authorities have passed an automobile ordinance which is creating some talk around that sounds like there would be something doing in the courts. Owners of automobiles for pleasure are required to pay $2.50 privilege tax on cars carrying two passengers, $5.00 on cars carrying four passengers, and $10 on cars kept for hire. Some seem to think the $1 they pay the State and their personal property tax on the machine should let them out. Others say it is too small a sum to fuss about.

Mr. J. C. Branch, who resigned as manager of the telephone exchange here the first of this year, and went to Clarksville, Ark., where he accepted a similar position, has returned to North Carolina, and is again manager of the Rockingham exchange, which position he held before coming to Lumberton. In addition to his duties as manager of the Rockingham exchange he will be assistant to Mr. Maxwell, district superintendent. Mr. Branch spent part of this week here.

Rev. R. E. Steele, of Spencer, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Lumberton Presbyterian Church, and will enter upon the work probably about September 1st.

We understand that an effort will be made to establish a new rural route from Allenton, serving the people in the section at present served by the Norment postoffice which at present gets mail just once a week—Saturday afternoon. It looks as though the people in that section will be left entirely out if a new route is not established, as the carrier who has been making the trip once a week will give it up on account of the small amount he makes from the work.

Dr. W. W. Parker returned last night from Asheville, where he had been to stand examination before the State board of optometrists. Dr. Parker passed the examination successfully and is now ready to serve those having eye troubles. We congratulate him and also the people of this section. Dr. Parker has one of the most up-to-date optical parlors in the State, barring none, and it is no longer necessary for our people to leave home for eye treatment.

Mr. F. J. Thomas, agent of the Southern Express Company, is spending some time at Jackson Springs. During his absence Mrs. Thomas is in charge of the office.

Many friends are rejoiced at the steady improvement in the condition of Mr. Geo. B. McLeod, who after several months of bad health is beginning to look like himself again.

Miss Mary Watrous, who formerly taught in the graded school, arrived last night to spend several days, and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Caldwell.——Mr. A. W. MR. RALPH ALDERMAN DEAD

Well-Known Young Man Passed Away Yesterday—Funeral.

Friends in the city will be grieved to learn of the death of Mr. Ralph R. Alderman, eldest son of the late Mr. Newton Alderman, and his wife, Mrs. Lola Alderman, which occurred at the home of his mother on Red Cross street, at noon yesterday. Mr. Alderman had been ill for some time and it was known that his condition was serious, although his friends and relatives hoped for his recovery until the last.

Mr. Alderman was for several years in the employ of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company. He was a young man of fine Christian character, faithful to every duty and obligation in life. He was also one of the foremost members of the Boys' Brigade and always took great interest in the work of the organization.

The deceased was 21 years and six months of age and is survived by his mother, three sisters, Misses Ina, Florence and Pearl Alderman, and one brother, Mr. Owen Alderman. From boyhood he has been the support of his widowed mother, who, with the other bereaved ones, will have the tenderest sympathy of many friends.

Following the funeral from the home today, by Rev. G. T. Adams, assisted by Rev. C. F. Whitlock, the remains will be taken to Atkinson for interment in the old family burying ground. The Boys' Brigade will escort the remains to the depot and the pall-bearers will be members of the organization.

SENTENCES WERE IMPOSED

August 25th Set as Date of Electrocution of Dick Gause.

Dick Gause, colored, convicted at a special term of Pender Superior Court at Burgaw this week of the murder in the first degree of Ned Gibson, colored, in this city, a few months ago and sentenced to be electrocuted August 25th, and J. E. Tisdal, a one-legged negro, who was convicted of being an accessory before the fact and sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary, were brought to this city yesterday morning by Sheriff W. R. Atkinson, of Pender, and lodged in the county jail to await the result of the appeal of the cases to Supreme Court, where the matter will be heard in September or October. J. T. Bland, of Burgaw, represents Gause and K. C. Sidbury, Esq., of this city, appears for Tisdal. Of course, the appeal to Supreme Court stays the execution of the sentences imposed.

Garfield Ford, the negro who killed his wife in the Southern section of the city a few months ago, and was found guilty by a Pender jury Thursday afternoon of murder in the second degree, and sentenced Friday to five years in the penitentiary, was taken yesterday morning to Raleigh to begin his term. He was represented by R. F. Brooks, Esq., of Wilmington, who decided not to take an appeal. The three cases were removed from this county to Pender at the request of the solicitor.

Railroad Officials Here.

Capt. W. H. Newell, general superintendent of the first division of the Atlantic Coast Line, with headquarters at Rocky Mount, and Mr. Morton Riddle, general superintendent of the third division, with headquarters at Jacksonville, Fla., are here in their private cars and will spend a few days longer in the city. It is understood that they are here to attend the conferences now being held between the officials of the road and a committee of the Brotherhood of Engineers.

RAILROAD REACHES SOUTHPORT

Last Spike Driven by President Z. W. Whitehead at 12 O'clock Last Night—Freight and Passenger Service Soon.

A long distance telephone message from Mr. J. C. Mintz, chief engineer for the Wilmington, Brunswick & Southern Railroad, at an early hour this morning states that the last spike, completing the construction of the new railway line into Southport was driven by President Z. W. Whitehead at 12 o'clock last night in the presence of a large number of citizens and accompanied by the greatest enthusiasm.

President Whitehead received the unstinted congratulations of the large crowd assembled for the accomplishment of his great undertaking. It was announced that freight and passenger service will be inaugurated at a very early date and good service will be given. Everything, it is said, is on a boom at Southport with the advent of the railroad and many real estate transfers are taking place upon an investment basis. There is also quite an awakening throughout the entire county and Southport and Brunswick are to be congratulated uopn this stroke of good fortune which will mean thousands of dollars to them. The terminus of the road is at foot of Rhett street, near the Stuart house and deep water terminals will be acquired and developed at the earliest possible date.

The length of the new railroad is 28 miles from Navassa, where it is expected traffic arrangements will be made for the entrance of the company's trains into this city through the union station. President Whitehead has worked in and out of season to accomplish the building of this road and he is to be congratulated everywhere upon his achievement.

A woman would make the best United States treasurer because she would try to count the money before she would be satisfied to go to bed.

New York legislators favor a single term of six years for President. They are not so much interested when it comes to the proper term for grafters.

When a mutual affection springs up between a man and a dog, the man can't even bear to see reflections made on the sheep-killers of the dog family.

"What ship is that?" She is the one that will be the first to come through the Panama Canal with a huge cargo of nitrate of soda from the Chilean mines for Wilmington's great fertilizer factories.

"Fans in the house, Geraldine, dear, are not the baseball kind," muses the Jacksonville Times-Union. And we might add that neither are the flies of this variety.

A Boston preacher defends the hobble skirt. That mere statement is sufficient to indicate that his congregation is made up of the fair sex, with probably a few married men who are denied leave of absence by their better halves.

A fellow who has been in the swim with the Summer girls at Wrightsville Beach, declares he never will make a fool of himself over any girl again. Make a fool of himself? Anybody can infer that it was the girls who made a fool of him. It's easy for them. They only have to "make eyes" at a Summer Swain in order to make a fool of him.

They were quick to jump on Dr. Wiley but they'll get cold feet when they find out that the newspapers and the people resent any interference with their jurisdiction at Washington. The interlopers around the National capital may as well understand that the people and their papers are now having a great deal to say about what shall be done at Washington.

A great many people say things about Hoke Smith but he is satisfied a man who can be Governor and Senator at the same time is not to be sneezed at except by envious and malevolent people who can't get one office. Besides that, Hoke Smith has money and can afford to worry along with two or three offices that would only handicap men who haven't sufficient breadth to them.

A Wilmington woman says if she were a suffragette the first thing she would do would be to vote against the Legislature as many times as the men at those little boxes would let her. She says she has watched the Legislature every time it meets to see if it would pass a bill prohibiting one woman from stealing a cook from another. Anyhow, she is satisfied they ought to be fined for the benefit of the Associated Charities.

A Republican paper in North Carolina is complaining that because the Democrats carried the country last year, the farmers can't get but 10 cents a dozen for their corn on the cob. A Republican paper in Washington complains that on account of the drought green corn sells in the market there at 40 and 50 cents per dozen ears. There's two Republican views of it and sensible farmers will find amusement in reconciling their differences on the roasting ear issue. It seems that the Republicans are hopelessly divided.

WILMINGTON'S NEW INDUSTRY.

The Star in its local department this morning carries the gratifying announcement that Wilmington's "get factories" campaign has resulted in securing an industry in which there apparently are great possibilities.

The new industry will manufacture metal products such as embossed metal ceiling, wainscoting, roofing, ventilators, spouting, culverts, and all other exterior and interior furnishings for buildings of various kinds. Of course, there is no limit to the use to which pressed steel can be put, so the articles named are only a few of the products that such a factory is capable of turning out. There are a thousand and one things that can be made of pressed steel, and the uses to which it can be put only depends upon the ingenuity of those who look over the field for business.

Any new thing can be added after the designs and patterns are made, so that we might say this new Wilmington manufacturing plant is one with infinite possibilities ahead of it. The articles which the company will manufacture as a regular line are standard and in ready demand in the building trades in all the cities and country, where stores, residences and buildings of any kind are to be constructed. The economy and attractiveness of these products are well recognized, and in view of the fact that building is proceeding on a large scale in the Carolinas, we predict that it will not be long till the metal products plant here will have to be enlarged.

The Company which is to operate the factory will be known as the Carolina Metal Products Company, and it will begin business with a paid-in capital of $50,000. The stock has been over-subscribed, and its stockholders are among Wilmington's representative men, so that the new industry is practically a home affair. The stockholders will meet next Tuesday for the purpose of organizing, electing officers and taking steps to erect the factory building, equip the plant and begin business. It is quite likely the factory will be in operation by October 1st.

The factory building itself is to be a handsome structure built of metal in imitation of stone and brick, and the roof will be constructed with metal shingles, so that the building will be an example of what can be done with material of this kind. In fact, about nearly everything you can think of is being made of metal, and it is only necessary to mention such things as furniture, desks, tables, chairs, filing cabinets, bookcases, etc., to illustrate the possibilities of the industry in our city.

All the plans and specifications for the factory and plant were drawn in the engineering department of the parent company at Canton, Ohio, and when the company organizes it will have but little to do except carry out the details and set the factory to work. We have seen the plans and infer from them that it will be as neat and model an industry as can be found in the South. There is this advantage about it, also, that the plant can be easily enlarged and its capacity increased as the business grows.

The Star congratulates Wilmington upon securing this industry, but it was largely through the untiring efforts and intelligence of Mr. George A. Stimpson, who came here from Canton to present the proposition. He is kind enough to give the credit to the Chamber of Commerce and the Star, but we happen to know that Mr. Simpson had the good eye and keen perception that enabled him to recognize the great advantages of Wilmington just as soon as he put his foot in town. He took in the situation at a glance, was greatly impressed with Wilmington's strong points as a distributing centre, and with a little coaching it did not take long for him to know Wilmington better than many home people who ought to get acquainted with it, so that they can "talk Wilmington" with Simpson.

The new industry for the present will employ about 30 or 40 men and boys and it will bring to the city skilled artisans who will constitute a class of good citizens. It will bring several families to the city and it is thus that industries make cities grow as well as increase its business.

Let's take a sack and go after another factory. We observe that we can get them when we do our part.

EDITOR GONZALES IS SAFE.

The Star was grieved over the dispatch chronicling the automobile accident by which Editor W. E. Gonzales, of the Columbia State, was painfully injured. The accident occurred Friday morning near Fountain Inn, Greenville county, while Captain Gonzales, accompanied by his colored chauffeur, was in a touring car en route to Asheville, N. C., where he was going to join his family.

Captain Gonzales was taken to Greenville for treatment and we are exceedingly rejoiced to learn from a dispatch that Dr. C. B. Earle, of that city, that the distinguished South Carolina editor will be out within the next two or three days After a thorough examination, Dr. Earle declared that while Captain Gonzales was painfully hurt there are no injuries besides a contusion on the back of the head and a bruise on the back just above the thigh. Captain Gonzales had an exceedingly narrow escape, and his brethren of the Southern press feel a sincere relief that he was spared for the wide field of usefulness in which he is an earnest and effective toiler. He is one of the South's ablest and most courageous editors, and not only South Carolina but the South could ill afford to be bereft of so fearless and useful a journalist.

Captain Gonzales spent a few days at Wrightsville Beach the latter part of last week, and we went down on Sunday evening to call on him, only to find that he had left that afternoon or his return to Columbia. While at the Beach he met many people, both Wilmingtonians and sojourners, and many were the inquiries in person and by 'phone at The Star office yesterday, anxiously seeking information concerning his condition and the accident. It was a thrilling one to be sure, and general interest will be felt in this account in a telegraphic report Friday night from Greenville by the correspondent of The State:

"The State correspondent saw Capt. Gonzales at 7 o'clock tonight and he had sufficiently recovered from the shock of the accident to be able to give a connected account of the wreck. Capt. Gonzales, with his negro chauffeur, left Columbia early this morning in a touring car for Asheville, and at 10 o'clock reached Fountain Inn without mishap. Just north of Fountain Inn on the direct road to Greenville a party of telephone linemen were at work and had lowered three or four wires across the road. Going at a rate of about 20 miles per hour the automobile was within a few yards of the suspended wires before the linemen stationed to warn passengers of the danger was seen, and on seeing the wires before him the driver mistook them for live wires and veered to the roadside in order to avoid them. At the same time he applied the emergency brake. One of the tires of the machine exploded, causing the machine to dash with terrific force into an embankment alongside the road The automoone turned completely over, pinning under it Mr. Gonzales and the driver, the only two passengers. Fortunately a deep ditch held the machine off them in part, and probably saved both Capt. Gonzales and his driver from serious injury. Capt. Gonzales was brought to Greenville in an automobile and given immediate attention by Dr. Earle The negro driver was given attention at Fountain Inn. He is not badly hurt. Mrs. Gonzales, who was at Asheville, was notified of the accident and is expected to reach Greenville before mid-night. Capt. Gonzales, in telling of the accident tonight, said the car is almost a complete wreck. When the news of the accident became known in the city much solicitude was expressed and there was much satisfaction when Dr Earle announced that Capt. Gonzales' injuries were in nowise serious. At mid-night a message from the infirmary said that Mr. Gonzales is resting well and that aside from soreness and stiffness from bruises, which will inconvenience him for several days, he is likely to suffer no ill effects from the automobile accident of this morning. During the afternoon many prominent Greenville people called at the infirmary to inquire after Mr. Gonzales' condition."

NEEDED IN NORTH CAROLINA.

In an editorial in the Columbia State, attention is called to something that should bring shame to North Carolina if the condition prevails to any great extent This is the editorial referred to:

"When the South Carolina maintainers of the useful and ornamental part of North Carolina, the Western mountain region, travel on the country roads, their eyes and other senses are pained by the spectacles of the "chain gang"—not because it is a chain gang for that institution is not unknown at home—but because boys are to be seen in it. One may see, has seen, a blue-eyed, pleasant faced lad of 16 toiling on the public highway in company with 20 or 30 men who are 30 or 40 years old, while two or three other men with repeating rifles in their hands and pistols in their pockets watched them—the latter quick to shoot, if necessary, the lad, who may be a naughty thief, or the seasoned man who, more likely, is a wicked and dangerous thief. Because we have good women in South Carolina and women's clubs besides, we have an industrial school for wayward boys. Without entering upon a discussion of the North Carolina men, it may be said that the women of North Carolina have the same goodness that those of South Carolina have—and they have an opportunity. It is for them to cause the North Carolina Legislature to take the boys off the chain gangs. If there is a State industrial school for youthful criminals in North Carolina, at least one stripling now at work on the chain gang should be in it, and if the State has no such school, the absence of it advertises the State's discredit."

It is to be hoped that what was observed by the State's editor was a local incident, but it matters not whether such sights can be seen in one or more counties, a stop should be put to it North Carolina has long been conspicuous for its humanitarian sentiment and work, and it is too late a day to continue such practices of putting boys on the roads with negroes and hardened criminals.

As a matter of fact, North Carolina has a State institution for such boys, and it should be used for the purpose for which it is intended. It is the Stonewall Jackson Training School at Concord, N. C., of which that superior and great-hearted man, Mr. J. P. Cook, is superintendent. He is a man who can "get hold" of boys and is doing a great work at the splendid institution which his originality and executive ability is converting into an ideal uplift home for wayward youths of the State.

The judges in North Carolina should correct the evil and disgrace complained of by the State newspaper, and the officials of every county in North Carolina should be notified that such spectacles are intolerable and greatly to the discredit of their State.

If it is because there is no room at the Stonewall Jackson Training School, the State should make the appropriation more ample or else the people of the State should take steps to sustain an institution so absolutely necessary among a civilized and progressive people.

"Be an optimist—you haven't heard of anybody freezing to death recently, have you?"—Washington Post. Politically speaking, the refrigeration process is going on right now.

An exchange remarks that the California suffragettes have set their arguements to music and are proclaiming them throughout the streets. Still holding to the triturated saying, "The thing of duty is to jaw forever," we presume

The wide-spread fame and growing popularity of Wrightsville Beach is indicated in the fact that among the sojourners at Wilmington's unrivalled seaside resort are people from Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri and Texas. Being situated on an island with the Atlantic Ocean in front and Wrightsville Sound on the other side, it is the only seashore resort that has no mosquitoes. Saline and salubious breezes, plunges in the ever-aerated surf of the restless, heaving ocean, yachting, fishing galore, music, dancing, beach-strolling, shell-gathering, and numerous pleasure-giving, worry-killing incidentals, make the red blood "come back." Health-giving elements, enjoyment unconfined, and Summer girls to beat the band, account for the heigera of the people to the South's Playground by the Rolling Sea.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Yet after all of this talk no one seems to know where the party in the State stands.—Durham Herald.

Robeson enjoys distinction in many ways, but none more so than in raising her tax rate 30 days before valuation of property by township assessors. The increased value of property is about three million dollars, but the commissioners can handle all this money, and more too, to meet every day extravagancies in their domain. —Red Springs Citizen.

"The initial letters of Simmons, Aycock, Clark and Kitchin spell sack. Which candidate will get it?"—Roxboro Courier. Correct. Now change the arrangement of the names thusly, Clark, Aycock, Simmons and Kitchin, the initial letters spell cask. Will one be needed and who will furnish it? Well, now change to Aycock, Simmons, Kitchin and you have ask-Clark.—Maxton Scottish Chief.

We are not a bit surprised to hear about the deal made between Congressman Godwin and Mr. George Bellamy. It is not the first of its kind in the Sixth district. A combination of politicians with future promises defeated Hon. John D. Bellamy for his third term. Mr. Bellamy sat for two days and nights at Lumina and hatched out Mr. Godwin. The time and place were quite fitting for rash promises.—Red Springs Citizen.

It is perhaps a fact that the Southern Railway hopes to advertise itself and receive some indirect benefit by furnishing a train for the good roads demonstration through the State, but suppose it does? Most people who are taking part in the good roads movement hope to be benefitted by getting better roads, if nothing else. A railroad that is not prosperous is worth little to the community through which it runs.—Durham Herald.

Mayor Dickinson and Mr. Richard Grantham have returned from Washington, N. C., where they went to inspect the Bermudez Asphalt pavement being placed in that city. So well are they pleased with the work and the finish that it leaves that the city will begin at once to lay it upon the macadam streets of Wilson, starting from the railroad and laying block after block as the finances of the city will afford. It is not the purpose of the authorities to ask the people of the city to vote a bond issue, but to repair the streets as best as possible and lay the covering with unskilled labor under the direction of Messrs. Dickinson and Grantham and a competent man who will be supplied by the asphalt people selling the material. With the macadam foundation already in place, which will require a covering of about two inches, the cost will not exceed 75 cents per square yard, and it may come cheaper than that, according to the cost of labor. The rock will be secured from the quarry, the material from the company that sells it. The city owns a roller, and the only equipment necessary to purchase will be two heating vats and a half dozen pouring pots.—Wilson Times.

MR. CRAFT'S POSITION.

Wants Change of Cow Ordinance But Is Against the Recall.

Editor Star:—As I have been one of the prime factors in the movement for a modification of the "cow ordinance" and noting in your issue of the 21st that certain parties who are desirous of a recall have tried to make it appear that they would have the aid of those supporting said "cow ordinance" I felt it incumbent upon myself to say through your columns that I am not in sympathy with any such movement and shall use my best efforts against such a calamity befalling our good city. Such an act would throw us into such a state of confusion that no one can prophesy what the result would be. I therefore bespeak the support of each and every one that signed the "cow ordinance" petition in defeating this recall movement. Stop! and think, would any man worthy to fill the position of Councilman be willing to run for the office almost knowing for a certainty that the first thing done to dissatisfy any one that he too would be put out? I had rather see every cow put out than suffer our city being placed in the predicament it would be by a recall. I didn't vote for the entire personnel of the present Council, but should we have to vote for them again I shall vote solid for reinstatement and am persuaded that I am not alone in this.

I would be glad if the Council could modify the ordinance, but in the face of the outrageous act of an attempted recall I shall not ask them to do anything that will in the least show weak knees to the public.

I am still of the opinion that the ordinance is unnecessarily severe. I am also persuaded that the cow is not filthy as she has been represented to be and cite as my authority for this assertion Peter's vision as recorded in Acts, 10th chapter, there you will find she has been cleansed and given to man for food. We have been taught to use the compost produced by these animals to fertilize our crops that are grown for the consumption of man, therefore, I claim that they are not germinators of diseases as has been represented, else our government would stop its use and as for cows having tuberculosis, this is the exception and not the rule in this vicinity; our milk inspector having tested quite a number in the large dairies and I have never known of one being killed yet.

Last, but not least, if you will inquire into the health record of men that work about stables where cows or horses are kept you will find their health record far above the average. this is the observation of one of our physicians whose ability is unquestionable. If the cow was as filthy and full of disease as has been represented to be the rule, how could our babies and sick ones thrive on the milk and the steak fed to them?

We have been accused of keeping cows in town for mercenary purposes, be that as it may with some, I keep mine principally for my baby and when I am deprived of my cow you take my baby's food from her and there are many others in the same position with myself. I give these facts in defense of the cow and the position I have taken in endeavoring to secure a modification of an ordinance that will work a hardship on quit a number of good citizens.

Very respectfully,
EDWARD C. CRAFT.

Reforms always hit and hurt somebody.

This is a proof of efficiency. When well wrought, a Reform is wide-spread, enduring advantage.

Some men deplore certain conditions, but the agitation that precedes the effort to improve them, shows ignorance and contemptible selfishness

The owners of these animals see no reason why their hogs shall not wallow, their cows bellow and their dogs howl close to the homes of neighbors; though offensive to their senses and injurious to their health.

These men ignore the discoveries of Medical Science—declaring they are deprived of Constitutional rights, if required to consider the welfare of the community.

Let a capable, courageous leader come to the front to deliver from disease and dirt, and they squirm and snarl. From some of our local literature we may infer this is the first attempt ever made to give a city a cleaning. A glimpse of numerous towns in the United States might be enlightening. In none of these are domestic animals kept.

Petitions are often signed by indifferent citizens. We brag of Wilmington's possibilities, but it needs more than a sun bath. "Ephraim is joined to his idols." "He who will not give some portion of his Ease, his Blood, his Wealth, for other's good, is a poor, frozen churl." H.

JULY TERM SUPERIOR COURT

Will Begin Tomorrow With Judge E B Cline, of Hickory, Presiding Number of Important Cases on Docket.

With Judge E. B. Cline, of Hickory, presiding in place of Judge Ward, who is ill at his home at Elizabeth City, the regular two-week's term of New Hanover Superior Court will convene tomorrow morning. There are a number of important cases on the docket, including four murder charges, though it is not expected that all will be tried at this term. Solicitor Henry E. Shaw, of Kinston, arrived yesterday morning from Burgaw, where he was engaged during the week, and spent the day in getting his docket in readiness for the term.

Much interest attaches to the probable action of the grand jury in bringing indictments against persons for violations of the State prohibition and other laws where the Recorder has not assumed jurisdiction within 60 days from the date of the commission of the offense. The last grand jury made a thorough and painstaking investigation of conditions here and as a result a number of indictments were brought for violations of the prohibition law and also for common nuisance, as well as to return a large number of presentments for action at this or a subsequent term of court. The grand jury at this term will also have much work to do. The jurors drawn for the first week are given below. At least one of the number was on the last grand jury and may be drawn to serve in a similar capacity at this term. The jurors drawn are: Messrs. E. W. Hollis, G. F. Watters, Oscar Pearsall, E. P. Crow, Walter Horne, C. W. Watters, H. E Bonitz, C. E. Harrellson, J. T. Burke, H. J. Bland, J. D. Brown, G. Ahrens, D. D. Barber, H. M. Bishop, W. W. Galloway, Jr., C. H. Stokley, Henry Bowden, E. S. Bannermann, H. E. Boney, W. D. Hall, W. C Armstrong, R. J. Farrow, J. F Holt, F. W. Westermann, J. D. Cottle, J. D. Mills, J. S. Williams, R. L. Cobb, M. M. Wood, Adam Empie, W. H. Smithson, E. Stokley, W. D. Stokley, H. L. Hewett, Fred McDaniel and J. P. Russ.

Murder Cases on Docket.

Of the 53 cases on the docket the four murder cases are of principal interest, chief among which is the charge against J. C. Holly, ex-preacher of the Quaker faith, and formerly proprietor of the old Rock Springs Hotel, who is accused of the murder by poisoning Young Edward Cromwell, who lost his life in a fire which gutted the hotel some months ago, collection of insurance to the amount of $2,000 on the boy's life furnishing the motive, according to the State's contention. He is also charged with arson, it being alleged that he set fire to the building after administering the poison in order to hide his crime and for the further purpose of collecting insurance and household kitchen furniture, practically all of which, the State hopes to show, had been removed prior to the fire. There is only circumstantial evidence against the defendant in both cases. He was tried a few months ago on the murder charge, found guilty and sentenced to be electrocuted, but upon appeal to the Supreme Court was granted a new trial. He is represented by C. D. Weeks and Wm. J. Bellamy, Esqs., who hope to secure an acquittal upon second trial, as well as to establish his innocence of the arson charge.

Another case of much interest in the city is the one against L. M. Sandlin, a white man, who shot and killed his wife a few weeks ago, and then turned the weapon upon himself, inflicting a painful wound which necessitated a stay of a few days at the hospital. William Stepney, colored, will be called upon to answer a similar charge. He shot and killed his wife and then attempted suicide. He was dangerously wounded and he remained at the hospital until a few weeks ago, being removed to the county jail at the same time Sandlin was taken to that institution. The fourth murder case is the one in which Jim Brown, colored, is charged with the killing of John Lane, colored, a few weeks ago. Brown was given preliminary hearing Thursday by the Recorder and bound over to the higher court. The coroner's jury exonerated him of the charge.

Other cases on the docket of interest are:

Reuben Stewart, false pretense.

Concil Stanley, robbery, mistrial at last term.

James Ballard, false pretense, continued from last term.

A. W. Ek, charged with perjury.

J. B. Riggs, two cases for violating the prohibition law, as result of work of last grand jury.

C. H. and Walter Thomas, charged with common nuisance.

Joe Stephens, who was acquitted of the murder of E. R. Shields, charged in a bench warrant with carrying a concealed weapon.

J. W. Law, false pretense.

Will Puskos, a Hungarian youth, charged with forging the name of Herman Vogel to a check which he succeeded in getting cashed. Owing to the youth of the lad it is not likely that the full penalty for such an offense will be imposed.

John Brown and George Powell, embezzlement in separate cases.

George Bell, assault with deadly weapon, appeal from Recorder's court.

Earnest Jenkins, assault with deadly weapon in that he shot at Police Officers Frank George and J. H. Davis, appeal from the Recorder's court.

James Sweeney, a white man, charged with house breaking, it being alleged that he broke into the home of a negro some months ago.

J. J. Harrell, a white man, resisting an officer and also for assault with deadly weapon, appeal.

Henry Black, colored, highway robbery.

Buck Alderman, colored, for breaking into and entering the office of T. A. Smith, colored.

Frank Bennett, alias Frank Plentiful, a negro youth, breaking into the store of Mrs. A. V. Jones.

Willie Nixon, larceny, appeal.

W. G. Baldwin, of Castle Haynes, selling whiskey, appeal.

Herman Schieve, abandonment, appeal.

D. N. Stanley, violating driving ordinance, appeal.

W. D. Austin, white, drunkenness, appeal from Recorder's court, where he received 30 days.

Paul L. Taylor, larceny, appeal.

Son Blount, alias William B. Blount, house breaking, sent up from Recorder's court Friday.

William Canady, assault with deadly weapon, larceny and carrying a concealed weapon, appeal from Recorder's court, where he received a total of two years on the roads.

FINAL BUSINESS MEETING

Members of One Hundred Thousand Dollar Club Elect Officers and Hear Speeches on Insurance Topics—Notes.

The final business session of the second annual convention of the One Hundred Thousand Dollar Club, composed of the agents of the Security Life and Annuity Company, of Greensboro, who sell insurance to the amount of $100,000 or more a year, was held in the Seashore Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, yesterday morning at 11:30 and from now until Monday the members will devote their time to the pleasures for which North Carolina's premier resort is famous.

At the session yesterday officers for the ensuing year were elected and speeches were made by a number present. Mr. G. H. Dortch, of Raleigh, was elected president; Mr. W. D. Frierson, of Sumter, S. C., vice president, and Mr. G. A. Rankin, of Macon, Ga., was re-elected secretary.

Mr. G. H. Dortch, the newly elected president, made an excellent talk on the "Real Agent." His remarks were of much practical value and they were heard with interest. Following Mr. Dortch, Mr. George A. Grimsley, secretary of the Security Life and Annuity, told "How to Keep Business on the Books." Mr. W. P. Upshur, general agent for South Carolina, of Sumter, S. C., spoke on "The Company." "How to Get an Interview," was the subject of Mr. R. P. Ketchum, general agent at Cordele, Ga., and Mr. P. C. Thomas, of Turner & Thomas, general agents at Hawkinsville, Ga., discussed the "Mistake Many Agents Make in Neglecting the $1,000 Prospect." There were also a number of short talks by other members present. All of the speeches were of real merit and the interchange of experiences and theories brought out are expected to be of much value to the agents in their work.

Present at the meeting were the following, representing five Southern States: From North Carolina, P. P. Yates, G. H. Dortch, J. L. Wimbish, G. A. Grimsley, C. C. Taylor, F. E. Sloan, M. M. Murchison; from South Carolina, H. V. Frierson, W. D. Frierson, G. H. Lenoir, W. B. Upshur, L. R. Trueluck, L. J. MacKay, W. E. Durant; from Georgia, G. A. Thomas, P. C. Thomas, S. W. Turner, L. T. Brown, R. P. Ketchum; from Florida, C. D. Laundon, L. C. Ketchum. Messrs. R. M. Robinson, R. L. Harper and A. M. Potter, of Virginia, are members of the club but were not able to attend the meeting this year. Several other agents of the company, who have only been with it a short time and thus have not qualified as members of the club as yet, were present at the convention, these being Messrs. L. M. McMillan and J. J. Kolb, of South Carolina.

Complimentary to the occasion the club Friday presented to the company over $250,000 in new business, most of which was written the preceding week. The One Hundred Thousand Dollar Club is a comparatively new organization, last year being the first time that it held an annual convention, but the members are "live wires," as one of the company officials expressed it. At the present they have written this year over $1,500,000 insurance more than the amount written up to this time last year.

The Sucurity Life and Annuity Company is now ten years old. It has in force business to the amount of $15,000,000 and assets of nearly $1,500,000.

The One Hundred Thousand Dollar Club will very likely meet at Wrightsville Beach again next year. The company gives the club this annual outing complimentary.

WAS CORRECTLY QUOTED.

Dr. W. S. Rankin Repeats What He Said to Mr. E. C. Craft.

At the meeting of the Council last Tuesday afternoon Mr. Edward C. Craft made a statement to the effect that Dr. W. S. Rankin, secretary of the State Board of Health, told him that he did not see the necessity of running the cows out of the city and also that he considered it sufficient if the cows were put on a parity with the horses. Soon after the meeting Dr. Chas. T. Nesbitt, city superintendent of health, wired Dr. Rankin as follows: "You are quoted at meeting at City Council this afternoon as having said that our cow ordinance is an unnecessary measure, that cow stables are not objectionable on city lots. Is this true? Answer." Dr. Nesbitt received in reply a brief message reading as follows: "Statement attributed to me is untrue."

The reply to the telegram sent by Dr. Nesbitt was published. Knowing that he had correctly quoted Dr. Rankin and being unable to understand his denial by wire to Dr. Nesbitt, Mr. Craft wrote to Dr. Rankin at once, receiving a reply yesterday morning. After setting forth the fact that what he denied was the statement attributed to him, not what he had told Mr. Craft, Dr. Rankin writes:

"Now, in regard to what I said to you in a conversation while walking with you from the City Hall to the hotel, and on being informed by you that the proposed ordinance (a copy of which I have never seen nor heard discussed) had for its object the elimination of the cow from the city of Wilmington: I did say that, personally, I favored an ordinance that would regulate the keeping of cows, like similar ordinances regulating the keeping of horses, but that it would be better to eliminate the cows from the city completely, than not to have any regulating ordinance at all."

NEW ENTERPRISE ASSURED

A meeting of the subscribers to the stock of the Carolina Metal Products Company, which will establish a big manufacturing plant in this city, has been called for Tuesday afternoon, July 25th, at 4 o'clock, and notice to this effect has been mailed by Kenan & Stacy, who have been retained as counsel for the concern. The meeting will be held at the offices of the attorneys in the Southern building.

The new enterprise is now assured and more than the required capital stock has been subscribed by some of the leading business men of Wilmington and several prominent citizens in surrounding towns. Of great importance to Wilmington is this new enterprise, as no doubt others will follow in a short time.

Mr. Van Horne, general manager of the Canton Culvert Co., will be present, a full attendance of the subscribers to stock is requested, as a number of important matters relating to the organization of the company, and the application for charter, will come before the meeting.

Drawings of the proposed factory have been completed, and the detail plans are now being worked out in the engineering department of the parent company at Canton.

Speaking of the work that has been done to secure this industry for Wilmington, Mr. George A. Simpson, special representative of the Canton Culvert Company, spoke in the highest terms of the assistance rendered by the Chamber of Commerce and the Morning Star. "And," said Mr. Simpson, "it is gratifying to know that the stock has been oversubscribed, and that among the subscribers are representative men of Wilmington. Every effort should now be made to promptly complete the organization by electing efficient officers and directors, who will proceed to build, equip and operate the plant without any delay."

CONCERTS AT LUMINA.

Programmes for Afternoon and Night. Mrs. Pearson to Sing.

The following programme for the Sunday concerts at Lumina, indicates that the music on these occasions will be especially interesting. The selections are very popular ones, and a large crowd of the Lumina patrons will no doubt be present. The afternoon concert begins at 4:30 and the night concert at 8:30. Mrs. Frank Pearson will sing both in the afternoon and at night. She has an excellent soprano voice, and those who have not already heard her sing at Lumina should not miss this opportunity to do so. As well as the numbers which Mrs. Pearson will sing, the programme as a whole is a good one and is highly recommended to all lovers of music. In this connection special attention is called to the "crucifix" by J. Faure, which will be rendered on the night programme. It is said to be an excellent production.

POST DATER-STAMP COMPANY

A Wilmington Enterprise of Inestimable Scope, That Deserves the Co-operation and Support of Wilmington Citizens.

A short time ago, as noted in the Raleigh dispatches to this paper at the time, a charter was granted by the Secretary of State to The Post Dater-Stamp Company, of this city, the purpose of the company being to manufacture and market several new and greatly improved mechanical dater-stamps originated and patented by one of Wilmington's enterprising citizens, Mr. Thomas R. Post, whose experience during 25 years service in the financial departments with the Atlantic Coast Line Railway Co., has enabled him to combine in the stamp the features that make it the only one that supplies the wants of the railroad, the banking and business world in general.

Before asking for the support of Wilmington citizens, the incorporators decided to make a Nation-wide and exhaustive investigation of the field for the company's product, and to assist in this work secured the services of Mr. Garland P. Peed, who is the accredited financial representative of the company. Mr. Peed stated yesterday to a representative of this paper that his investigation had extended over the past three months, during which he had traveled from New York to Florida and beyond the Mississippi river, and visited about 30 cities, where conferences were held with railroad, banking and business men. Between 500 and 1,000 representative men were consulted and not one man gave an adverse opinion regarding the stamp. A majority found new fields for it in every line of business and stated that an enterprise of this character would be inter-national in its scope and would abundantly reward those interested therein.

A number of cities offered financial support and other lines of co-operation for the purpose of having the plant located therein, and numbers of communications are being received from the commercial bodies and progressive citizens of places not visited, who, through the attention the merits of the stamp has commanded, are anxious to secure the plant and offices of the company for their respective communities. Communications have been received from Baltimore, New York, Detroit, Cleveland, Memphis, Chattanooga, Louisville, Nashville, several Virginia and West Virginia and Pennsylvania cities, but, as it is desired that the enterprise be known as a "Wilmington industrial," none of the offers have been considered.

The stamp has received the written endorsement of a number of railroads, numerous banks and business houses of every description. Its field of operation is general. Among the railroad endorsements are those from the Atlantic Coast Line, Pennsylvania, Norfolk & Western, Norfolk & Southern, Seaboard Air Line, Southern and others. These endorsements indicate a demand the company could not supply within a number of years. Wilmington people will be interested in the personnel of the company's officials and directors, whose integrity and ability are guarantees of an intelligent, efficient and honest administration of the company's affairs.

They are as follows: Vice presidents, James F. Post, Wilmington, N. C.; Edward W. Lane, president Atlantic Bank, Jacksonville, Fla.; N. G. Wade, president Wade Tie Co., Jacksonville, Fla.; D. C. Love, Wilmington, N. C.; W. F. McAuley, president Savannah Bank & Trust Co.; C. J. Shannon, Jr., president First National Bank, Camden, S. C., and several other industries; Thos. R. Post, president and treasurer, Wilmington, N. C.; Thos. B. McAdams, cashier Merchants' National Bank and member of the firm of Thos. Branch & Son., Richmond, Va.; B. S. Jerman, president Commercial National Bank, Raleigh, N. C.; Jos. B. Lacy, treasurer Norfolk & Western Railway system, Roanoke, Va. These men are among the South's staunchest business men, and make one of the strongest boards of directors in the South.

This is an enterprise that deserves and should receive the support and co-operation of every Wilmington citizen. What Wilmington needs is industrial enterprises of this character and the name of "Wilmington" on the thousands of stamps the company will place in railroad offices, banks, etc., through the United States alone will be an unlimited advertisement. The offices of the company have been located at 411 Southern Building. The Star desires to call its readers' attention to the advertisement appearing on another page in this issue.

ABSOLUTELY PURE ICE

The following letter of date July 21st 1911, from Messrs. Froehling & Robertson, of Richmond, Va., analytical chemists of the highest authority in the land, demonstrates that the Independent Ice Company is producing ice of the very highest quality and purity:

No. 50247. Richmond, Va., July 21, '11.

The Independent Ice Co.,
Wilmington, N. C.

Gentlemen:

On the 15th inst. we received by Express from you an entire block of your ice with instructions to make a thorough examination of it for the purpose of determining if it contained anything prejudicial to its use. We beg to advise that we took three separate samples from the block, two being clear ice from either end, and the third white ice from the centre of the block, and having subjected them to a searching chemical and bacteriological analysis. The results of these tests enable us to state that the ice is made from pure distilled water, and that both chemically and bacteriologically it is of the very highest purity and contains nothing that could in any way prove harmful to health.

From our examination, we consider this ice to be of exceptionally fine quality.

Respectfully,

FROEHLING & ROBERTSON,
Consulting Chemists and Bacteriologists.

CAPE FEAR CHAPTER U. D. C.

Important Meeting of Organization Held Wednesday Morning—Invitation from Veterans—Delegates to Convention.

The meeting of Cape Fear Chapter United Daughters of Confederacy on Wednesday morning was one of special interest and importance. The president presided and there were a large number of members present. It had been the desire of the Chapter to entertain in some way the veterans during their annual encampment here on August 2nd and 3rd, and plans had been determined upon for doing so, but upon request of Cape Fear Camp U. C. V., which stated that practically all the time during the encampment had been arranged for, these were abandoned.

The Chapter is most appreciative of the cordial invitation extended by Cape Fear Camp for its members to be present as guests of the Division at the opening exercises on the 2nd, and at dinner and supper, which will be served at the mess hall on that day, and the president appointed the following committees to be present at the mess hall, but she earnestly requests any other members of the chapter who can arrange to do so and care to, to be present.

She requests the chapter to be present as a body at the opening exercises on the second, and as many as possible on these two other occasions.

The historian of the chapter feelingly announced the death since the last meeting of Mrs. Gabbett, of Georgia, the originator of the Crosses of Honor, and the following were appointed a committee to draft suitable resolutions to be inscribed upon a page of the minutes and to be sent to the Atlanta chapter: Miss Hettie James and Miss Mary Meares.

The wreath committee was appointed for the month as follows: Miss Louise Bunting, Miss Mary Wiggins and Miss Lilly Brown.

The president called attention to an article in the July "Veteran", giving extracts from an address delivered at Fisk University by Charles E. Stowe, a son of Harriet Beecher Stowe, and requested that it might be read by all, as being interesting and well worth a reading, coming as it does from the son of the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Another great week, both artistically and financially, was that the Bijou brought to a close last night, playing to capacity audiences during the entire evening. Yesterday afternoon was also a banner occasion, the ladies and children flocking to the attractive theatre. In fact, the Bijou is the mecca for the femininity and the little ones every afternoon and at night the grown-ups crowd the cosy, up-to-date place, which is doubly attractive this warm weather, as it is "the cool spot", being made not only comfortable by many electric fans and free, healthful ventilation, but decidedly refreshing and in every way delightful. The bill yesterday was a corker, in true keeping with the high standard set by the Bijou, and it was immensely enjoyed. The pictures were of the very latest type and there were plenty of them, whil the musical numbers were many and tuneful. Mr. Frank Banks, the favorite singer, scored his usual brilliant triumph and responded to repeated encores. The present week, starting off with matinees tomorrow afternoon, holds a big bunch of good things in the way of both pictures and music for Bijou lovers, and they are numbered by the hundred. The offering for the week also contains a number of big surprises. Tomorrow's giant bill will make a happy and glorious inauguration of a swell week.

S.S.S. CURES OLD BLOOD DISEASES

Contagious Blood Poison is responsible for a great many old blood troubles, such as scrofulous affections, skin eruptions, catarrhal troubles, Rheumatism, ulcerating sores, etc. There is no such thing as ridding the system of these effects by killing the poisonous germs. Any medicine powerful enough to accomplish this would also destroy many of the delicate linings and tissues, and wreck the constitution. The only way to cure old blood troubles is to REMOVE the cause from the circulation, and for this purpose nothing is equal to S. S. S. It goes into the blood, and drives out every taint and poison, and makes this vital fluid pure, rich and nourishing. S. S. S. has long been known as the greatest of all blood purifiers and many thousands have rid themselves of old blood diseases by its use. It ALWAYS removes the impurity from the blood and cures these old disorders, whether inherited or acquired. Book on the blood and any medical advice free to all. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.

COTTON SURPRISINGLY QUIET

Offerings Showed Continued Tendency to Increase on Slight Bulges—Six Points Higher to Three Points Lower.

New York, July 22.—Considering the activity and excitement of the earlier week, the cotton market was surprisingly quiet today. Covering for over the week-end appeared to be in no greater volume than is quite frequently experienced in a mid-Summer market, while offerings showed a continued tendency to increase on slight bulges and the market closed barely steady net six points higher to three points lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 20 points on July and unchanged to five points higher on other months. The sharp rally in July appeared the result of a couple of buying orders in an empty market and as soon as July was offered for sale the price broke to 13.15 with subsequent fluctuations irregular on a volume of business small enough to attract no special comment. Later months fluctuated within a range of five or six points during the entire morning and active new crop positions closed about 3 lower to 2 points higher. Trade interests were again moderate buyers and there was further buying for a reaction but crop accounts were generally favorable, weekly reviews of the dry goods trade were unsatisfactory and the action of the market as well as most of the talk around the floor suggested a continued yearish average of sentiment coupled with expectations that the trade buying around the 12 cent level would soon be supplied. Complaints of too much rain in the central belt seemed to attract very little attention, owing, perhaps, to a feeling that the greatest danger or deterioration during the Summer is from drough. Continental spinners were reported to be good buyers in Liverpool this morning, but after a relatively firm opening the English market lost part of its advance, closing barely steady with prices only a shade better than due on the New York finals of Friday. Fall River sales of printcloths for the week were estimated at only 45,000 pieces and the week's curtailment in the Fall River mills at 200,000.

Estimated receipts at ports today, 615 against 369 last week and 7,407 last year. For the week 10,000 bales against 4,890 last week and 20,967 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 87 bales against 1,464 last year and at Houston 361 against 198 last year.

Spot closed quiet 10 points higher; middling uplands 13.55; middling gulf 13.80; sales none.

Futures opened steady and closed barely steady.

Kill More Than Wild Beasts.

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. No life is safe from their attacks. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malarial and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c. at R. R. Bellamy's.

REACTION IN STOCK MARKET

Traders Who Expected Continuance of Friday's Upward Movement Were Disappointed—Prices at Outset Higher.

New York, July 22.—The net result of operations on the stock exchange today must have proved disappointing to those who expected a continuance of yesterday's late upward movement. Prices at the outset were generally higher with especial strength in Union Pacific and a few other speculative leaders, but the market soon flattened out on a modicum of trading and the bull party doubtless thought it unprofitable to press its advantage further. At all events, before the end of the brief session initial gains had given way to fractional recessions, save in the case of a few obscure stocks whose advance failed to excite interest. On the decline Union Pacific fell a point after having advanced to 192 3-8, its high price of the year.

Europe sold about 8,000 shares in this market and houses with London connections said that there was some increased uneasiness over the Moroccan situation.

Recent conditions in the copper trade found reflection in the annual report of the American Smelting & Refining Company. Net earnings virtually unchanged from last year, but charges for profit and loss adjustment and for depreciation reduced the surplus for the year to almost one-half of the preceding year's amount.

The bond market was steady. Total sales par value $1,714,000. United States government bonds were unchanged on call on the week. Total sales of stocks today were 153,100 shares.

Victims of Accidents at Different Times and Places.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Brock were painfully injured yesterday afternoon in a different way and at a different time. In getting out of her automobile in front of her home, No. 522 South Fifth street, yesterday at noon, Mrs. Brock fell and sprained her ankle, which caused her much pain during the afternoon. Mr. Brock was with her at the time of the accident. Later in the day Mr. Brock was painfully injured about the knee when he fell at Fifth and Castle streets in getting off the street car. Mr. Brock's mother was painfully hurt by a fall down a stairway, while on a visit in Fayetteville a few weeks ago. While she was able to be brought home a few days ago, she has not yet recovered. Friends will hope for the speedy recovery of Mr. and Mrs. Brock and their mother.

in respect to legislation and the enactment of laws, says that I shall recommend to the Legislature such laws as I think should be enacted. I have done that in respect to trusts.

Let the records speak as to whether I have modified my views on trusts since I was elected. If you had published the report of my speech at Spray in the last campaign, which was sent to you by a newspaper man who heard it, your readers would already know the injustice of your charge. I went into the question of legislative action on trusts fully in that speech and I used that speech at Kinston, Nashville and many other places, and if either you or your readers care to know the details of that matter I shall be glad even now to furnish you with a copy of my remarks as made at Nashville.

In my inaugural address in regard to trusts, I said:

"The man who by foul means wilfully and needlessly takes the life of a rival, under our law forfeits his own. The corporate monopoly that by foul means wilfully and needlessly destroys its rival by wrong-doing for the purpose of exacting unjust profits from the public, should forfeit its existence. All the power of the State in all of its departments should be exerted to destroy every unnatural monopoly, every industrial trust that commits wrong upon the people and their industries."

In the issue of your paper of February 2, 1909, appears the following interview given by me:

"I consider our platform was a direct endorsement of the famous subsection A, which failed to become a law at the last Legislature, and in my judgment this Legislature ought to amend our existing law by adding the substance and effecting the purpose of that section."

On February 10, 1909, about a week after the conference with Senators Lockhart and Nimocks, I sent a special message to the Legislature in which I copied the entire platform declaration on the subject of monopolies and trusts and in which I used the following language:

"The opportunity has come to make such conspiracies criminal and to prescribe punishment for such conspirators. You are face to face with the duty of obeying the mandate of the Democratic convention. * * *

"A mere statement of the proposition that a conspiracy by purchasers to put down the price of an article produced by the labor of others is wrong, is so clear and convincing in its simplicity that it would seem idle to argue its justice to any American legislative body. * * *

"The duty of repressing wrong and protecting those who cannot protect themselves requires the lawmakers to put the whole power of the State against such conspiracies."

"I therefore recommend that the General Assembly comply with that declaration, because it is right and ought to be the law, and because the dominant party is pledged to its enactment. * * *

"The fear of the wrath of those who violate a moral principle, and who threaten, if the Legislature of the State of North Carolina complies with the wish of her majority to punish the communities already in their grasp, rather than obey the laws, should not affect the judgment or paralyze the efforts as it cannot nullify the duty of those whom the people have chosen to do their will."

The morning after that message was published, you editorially stated that the Governor's message stood on the platform and recommended compliance with its provisions.

On February 13th, you said that I had sent a message advocating the passage of an anti-trust law containing sub-section A with effective machinery for its enforcement.

When the Legislature of 1911 met, I made to it the most comprehensive and drastic recommendations against trusts. These were so clear and strong in their effect that some time afterwards, when a gentleman introduced a bill embodying all of my recommendations except the two most vital and sweeping ones, your paper with enormous head lines pronounced it a bill against trust with teeth. In this message I said among other things:

"It behooves the government of every State to exert its entire power in contributing to the destruction of monopoly, the restoration of competition in industrial life, in limiting trust evils, in protecting her people, and in compelling compliance with and in punishing violations of her laws.

"Two years ago the Legislature, in compliance with the definite mandate of the people, amended our anti-trust law by incorporating into it the entire substance of the only material part of the bill considered by the Legislature of 1907, which then failed to become law. So far as our substantive law on the subject goes, it is strong and clear, though it has not had the beneficent effect which its advocates anticipated. In my judgment we should enlarge the scope of the law making acts intended to destroy competition and create monopoly criminal, by adding certain other subsections to section 1, of chapter 218, of the Acts of 1907, and experience suggests the wisdom and necessity of amending said chapter in other respects to render it more effective. * *

"I have endeavored to obtain from the several solicitors, who have in the last two years represented the State in various judicial districts, definite suggestions which in their official experience or otherwise have occurred to them as proper amendments to strengthen our law. One of the ablest has suggested that the words 'article or thing of value' used in said law probably included only tangible things and would not include telephone and telegraph messages. Although the Corporation Commission has the power to regulate their charges, I recommend that you consider the language used in the statute with the view of including practices which are prejudicial to the rights of the people and for the purpose of including rates and tolls."

I also recommend that sub-section "G" be added as follows:

"'For any person, firm, corporation or association to contract to combine in the form of trusts or otherwise, or to conspire with any other person, firm, corporation or association in restraint of trade, commerce or manufacture in this State.'

"I further recommend that an additional sub-section "H" be added as follows: 'For any person, firm, corporation or association to monopolize or attempt to monopolize or combine or conspire with any other person, firm, corporation or association to monopolize any part of the trade, commerce or manufacture within this State.'

"These two sections recommended are the substance of tae two most important sections of the Federal anti-trust law.

"I recommend that the use of coupons in packages of merchandise or other articles of value be forbidden in this State.

"I also recommend that in purchasing goods, wares or merchandise for the use of the State or any of its institutions that it be provided that preference shall be given to the products of independent manufacturers and dealers.

"The Constitution places the control of all criminal prosecutions in the Superior Court in the hands of the district solicitors. The Governor of North Carolina, as I construe the law, has no power to employ lawyers to prosecute criminal cases, under our anti-trust law, prohibition law, assault and battery law, or any other criminal statute, except where a State functional or property interest is involved. A prosecution under our anti-trust law will require much care, investigation, preparation, and generally a hard trial. I recommend that the Governor be authorized to employ special counsel to assist solicitors in prosecutions under our anti-trust law, and to employ special agents to investigate the facts upon suggestions from a solicitor that such investigation is desirable in any case of supposed violation of such law, and that the Treasurer be authorized to pay the compensation and expenses of such counsel and agent out of the public treasury upon the auditor's warrant issued upon the Governor's approval. I also recommend that said law be amended so that 40 per cent. of the fines collected by virtue of any prosecution thereunder be paid to the solicitor, such special counsel assisting him and the private prosecutor or prosecutors if there be any, in such proportion as the trial court may adjudge. I also recommend that it be provided that any violations of our anti-trust law shall subject the offender to a penalty of $100 a day, which may be recovered by any citizen of the State, and that any person, firm, corporation or association injured by its violations shall upon having his actual damages legally assessed have a judgment against the defendant for three times such actual damages."

With these records well known you assume to credit the contradictory recollection of one who is seeking my defeat. You have claimed to be neutral in State contests within the Democratic party. You took no part in former Senatorial contests either in 1901 or in 1903. Since then you have probably grown more confident and have determined to defeat two candidates for the Senate, whether you have determined to elect on or not. You can constantly bombard me, but I shall leave my cause with the people hoping that as they nominated me once without your help they can nominate me again against your opposition. I am not afraid of the truth, and I do not believe you can mislead the people either as to my personal political or official character.

When I was a candidate before there was an effort to injure me by charging that I was unsafe and dangerous. You now take the other tack, and try to make the people think that I have no moral courage, am truckling, am a hypocrite, and have made pledges to break them. I have pursued the even tenor of my way, discharging the duties of my high office under my oath, taking advice from all but not controlled by you or any one.

My attitude towards trusts has never changed. I am as anxious to aid in the destruction of private monopolies and the punishment of offenders as I ever claimed to be. I never said that I could destroy the American Tobacco Co., or any other trust operating throughout the United States, if elected Governor. And yet you have tried to make your readers believe that. I never promised the people to usurp the powers of the Legislature or the judiciary. I have always regarded the great trusts as pillaging plunderers of our progress, and I shall do what I can to relieve the people from their oppression under the Constitution of this State and the United States. These commercial pirates I have fought from my youth up to this day. I have always thought and still think rich and great offenders should be punished as well as others. The charge that you make upon the recollection of a conversation two and a half years ago in substance is that after my nomination or election I changed my attitude towards trusts. Fortunately for me the records quoted above disprove every syllable of that charge without having to resort to the recollection of conversations. To that record the public will resort rather than to the product of the intemperate zeal of another's advocate. In this State the three departments, the executive, judicial and legislative, are separate and apart. The Governor of North Carolina is the Governor in the United States that has no veto power and the Governor without the power to veto legislation can have little power beyond the reason of his messages in securing legislation. You have constantly opposed giving the Governor the veto power. A striking comparison of the powers of Governors is found between the Governor of this State and the Governor of New Jersey, who has the veto power; who has the power of appointing the Secretary of State, the judges of the Supreme Court, the Clerk of the Supreme Court, the district judges, the Attorney General and the district attorneys. A Governor with this power, disposed to use the "big stick" can be very effective in legislation, and yet the Governor of New Jersey has not driven the American Tobacco Co.—one of its chartered institutions—from its borders. You may think that the Governor of North Carolina, without such powers, should try to browbeat a Legislature into compliance with his wishes. I have no such conception of either my moral or constitutional duties in respect to the acts of a co-ordinate branch of the government which the people of North Carolina have created.

W. W. KITCHIN.

"Yes, he gave me a nickle to buy shells, and I bought three at Kid's and gave them to him.

"Have you seen this gun since the day you turned it over to your cousin?"

"No, sir."

"Was it at night that you bought the gun?"

"Yes, about 10 P. M.

Suddenly the witness showed signs of collapsing. He asked the lawyers to wait. Quickly he became dazed. He would have fallen from his chair had several persons not rushed forward to him. They carried Paul into the house. He was on the verge of another total collapse like that which startled everyone on the grounds yesterday.

All the time Paul was on the stand, Henry Beattie, Jr., kept his eyes leveled upon the witness, but Paul would not glance in his direction. The eyes of the two cousins did not meet.

As Paul was carried into the house, Henry Beattie, Jr., lighted a cigarette and turned to his father and entered into a serious conversation with him.

Paul was revived and returned to the stand in fifteen minutes. Attorney Smith said that he did not care to examine Paul if the latter were sick. After a short wait he began questioning the witness.

"How old are you?"

"Twenty-one years old."

"How old were you when you left Mancnester?"

"I don't know."

"Your father was assistant postmaster, wasn't he?"

"Yes."

"You were a grown man, wern't you?"

"Yes."

"Where did you go on leaving Manchester?"

"Went to Richmond, lived there a while, then I went to Norfolk, Philadelphia and then to Salem. I got a job on a boat. I was first mate."

"How long had you given up sailing before you returned recently to Richmond to live?"

"About four months."

"When you returned, what did you do?"

"Worked on the street cars, drove wagons, worked as a glass blower and as a carpenter."

"Why did you leave the street car company?"

"I was fired. I was never told why. I was first a conductor, but was a motorman at the time I was discharged. I hadn't done anything to be discharged for."

"Have you been on pleasant terms with Henry C. Beattie, Jr?"

"Yes. We have had no words much. He used to get after me sometimes, but our relations were pleasant as far as I knew."

"Wasn't your last transaction a disagreement and row?"

"We had words once about my brother, David Beattie, going in the navy."

"Didn't you tell him you had a detective to protect your rights, or charge him and his father with attempting to cheat you out of your rights?"

"No, we had no fuss to amount to anything. We parted friendly."

"Did you ever go to his house?"

"He has asked me to go over there a thousand times, and I have gone several times. The only time I remember his calling me on the telephone was when he called me to meet him about this gun. I don't know what night it was."

Thent here followed a long fight between Attorney Smith, for the defense, and the witness to fix the night. Paul Beattie seemed nervous and confused for a time, as though hardly understanding questions.

"Did you insist on his telling you what he wanted the gun for?"

"No. I didn't think it was anything unusual. He gave me $4 to buy it."

"Did he ask you to keep the transaction a secret?"

"No, sir."

"Never said not to tell your wife or anybody else?"

"No."

"Did you tell anybody?"

"No, I didn't. I don't tell my business to everybody."

"He did not ask you not to say anything about it, but still you kept it a secret?"

"Yes."

"When did you buy the gun?"

"Two days later."

"Did he tell you he was in a hurry to get the gun?"

"No."

"Tell you what to do with it after you got it?"

"No. I took it to him at his store. There was no more talk between us about it. The first thing I knew this murder happened. I have been nearly crazy ever since."

The witness then told of his spending Tuesday night, the night of the crime, in bed, being sick from the heat, and his asking Harry nothing about what he wanted with the cartridges he bought for him. He was then excused and assisted from the stand by several officers, and Mr. Wendenburg announced that the commonwealth had no more witnesses to offer.

The jury thereupon retired and in ten minutes returned with their verdict.

Henry Beattie, Jr., was remanded to jail for trial and Paul Beattie and Beulah Binford were held as witnesses for the prosecution, in default of bail, the sum of $5,000 in the first, and the second in $1,000. The grand jury to take up the case will meet on the second Monday in August and the trial will be had in the Circuit Court of Chesterfield county.

Seldom, if ever before, has there been so much feeling in this community over a case of the kind. This has been particularly strong in South Richmond, where the principals in the tragedy are well known and prominent. There has been tremendous public indignation against Henry Beattie and the police of the city and the county authorities feel called upon to take the utmost precautions against a possible outbreak of this hostility.

Great crowds have attended most of the sessions of the inquest. It is the general impression tonight that the next sensation in the case will probably be furnished by Paul Beattie.

Red Buck Discourses on Happenings of Interest Down Home at Washington—Press Gallery Observations—After Publicity—Dr. Wiley a Real Man—Other Notes.

Washington, July 22.—Things have been happening here. All sorts of sensations fell last week and this week. The "board on the personnel of the Department of Agriculture" stirred up a hornets' nest when it undertook to turn Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the famous pure food expert out. Delegate James Wickersham, of Alaska, made the fur fly when he took his gloves off to Attorney General Wickersham for neglecting to prosecute two concerns that defrauded the government out of $50,000 in a coal contract in his territory. Miss Myrtle F. Abbott, who discovered the Dick-to-Dick letter, which suddenly disappeared, put all Washington tongues a-wagging.

These are a few of the sensations recorded inside of ten days. The newspaper boys have reached the place where they say "It is first one darned thing after another."

This is a good place to talk something about the press galleries and the extra session. No set of men ever worked harder, faster, and under greater strain than the House Press Gallery representatives have had to do this session. Everybody, save a few old reliables, was new, and a battle for the news was fiercer than if the ropes had been in older hands. Democratic Committee chairmen flashed news that would be read around the world without ever giving the scribes a tip. Sometimes a real juicy story, with all sorts of curves and angles, would remain in a committee several days before it leaked out. The roast given Attorney General Wickersham by Delegate Wickersham was 24 hours old before it reached the ear of a newspaper man. A member of the Judiciary Committee, where it broke, tipped me off the day after it happened, and when I got to the clerk, and began to pump him, an Associated Press man, who had received a tip from another committeeman, dropped in. That was in the middle of the afternoon. My story, which was written for the New York World, was on the wires soon after 6 o'clock. The Associated Press representative had his going by 9 o'clock. An hour after that time reporters were scurrying here and there, running east and west, north and south, hunting Judge Wickersham. The cat was out and had to be caught.

But the Democrats are learning—they are beginning to understand and appreciate the value of printers' ink. One or two chairmen who have not been able to get front page space and big headlines are on the alert. One fellow has become a joke. Some heads of committees have become famous over night.

About the most interesting bit of news started here this session was that embodied in the charge of Miss Abbott, the tiny, dapper, wide-eyed little woman, that sprung the Dick-to-Dick letter. The letter, if there was one, was alleged to have been written by Richard S. Ryan, who used to be connected with the Guggenheim-Morgan syndicate, which has invested great wealth in Alaska, to Richard A. Ballinger, formerly Secretary of the Interior. If the letter was written by Ryan to Ballinger and contained the substance that Miss Abbott says it did President Taft was mighty close to the despised interests. It is believed by some of Mr. Taft's friends that the letter was faked and palmed off on the young woman so that it would get to the public just as it has done.

The charges made by Judge Wickersham of Alaska, against the Attorney General, came right on top of this. This fact is responsible for the saying: "It is no use saying Dick-to-Dick to me now for there is more in the Wick-to-Wick row."

"But my paper, mister, it has the latest on Dick-to-Dick," said one newspaper vender at the House Office Building.

"Gee, boy, crawl off and die, you are two weeks behind the times. Dicto-Dick is dead and Wick-to-Wick is at the bat," said a companion.

Just as the Wick-to-Wick sensation was taking flight the Dr. Wiley storm came and discounted everything.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the man back of the pure food and pure drug law, is the most spectacular man in official life here. But, there is more than that to him; he is a real man, and an institution combined. The liquor trust, it is charged, is fighting him for his everlasting war on sorry whiskey. It will be recalled that he had much to do with the problem "What is whiskey?"

The men making trouble for him will know that they have been in a fight before they get him out. The press of the country rushed to his rescue and is hammering morning and evening.

Dr. Wiley in the meantime is not worried. He smiles and continues the even tenor of his way.

"If you want to keep cool," said he last Sunday, "think about something besides the heat. You are not much hotter outside than you are inside. Just remember that."

I saw Dr. Wiley in the House office building the other day. He was walking down one of the long race horse corridors, where you can tell whether a man has crooked legs of not. I took a good look at him. He is tall, erect, and rugged. His face is rosy-tinted, and his eye clear and keen and mischievous. On his ponderous head he wore a panama hat and in his large hand, at the end of his long right arm, he carried a portfolio; I was struck with his resemblance to an old-time Southern country doctor.

It is said that Dr. Wiley, if he had been purchasable—crooked—could have sold out for hundreds of thousands. I have never heard him charged with dishonesty. The only thing against him is that he has become famous while some of the nimcompoops on the "board of personnel" have never won any laurels.

While all these didoes were being cut in official circles, Harry Atwood, the young birdman, has been sailing over Washington like a blue crane in his new ship, the Moth. He dropped from the clouds to the White House yard Saturday, tarried a while and rose and flew away.

Airships have become common about the capital. The government aviators sail forth every few days and give the people an opportunity to see them soar and sail as the notion strikes them.

Mr. J. P. Caldwell, for years the brilliant editor of the Charlotte Observer, used to say that there were three fools, the fellow who rocked the boat he was in, the fellow who blew in the muzzle of a gun to see if it was loaded, and the fellow who carried his baby in front of him on a bicycle. If he were back at his post he could add one more, the fellow who takes his sweetheart before or behind him on a motorcycle. I have seen as many as two dozen motorcyclists, with girls mounted on their machines, running at the rate of 10, 12 or 15 miles an hour about Washington. I observed one couple doing a co-operative task. The girl had the handle bars of the wheel guiding, and the boy had her by the ankles to keep her from falling off.

Such is life in Washington with the thermometer playing around 100.

It looks now as if Congress might adjourn about the middle of August, then politics—a Presidential campaign.

TELEPHONE ETIQUETTE.

A number of telephone companies have issued extremely interesting and compact folders on telephone etiquette says Anna Stella Richardson in the New York World. They have set forth the correct way to call up numbers, enter compalints and in fact conduct any and all sorts of business with the telephone company and its attaches. But alas, they have neglected to tell subscribers how to protect themselves from telephone bores, telephone imposition and telephone rudeness on the part of mere acuaintances.

Now, of course there are men and women who do not answer telephone calls in person, but delegate the task to servants or clerks. Unfortunately, however, the vast majority of subscribers belong to that mass of Americans who are unaccustomed to doing things for themselves.

There is, for instance, Jones, the well-known artist. He has an inspiration and a telephone call at the same instant. His eye is directed toward the waiting canvas, his ear is caught by the telepehone bell. He hesitates. It may be a dealer. It may be Mrs. De Forest, who talked of having a portrait done. It may be an invitation to dinner. At the third ring he dashes across the studio.

Then there is the "friend" who calls you from the dinner table because he is sure of "catching you in at that hour." He wouldn't call at your home at your dinner hour, but the telephone is different—and he does not see your dinner getting cold nor the frown on your face. When we get telephone instruments that reflect faces as well as carry voices, what a transformation in telephone manners there will be.

The other friend who calls you at an unearthly hour in the morning, so as to be sure to get you before you start down-town, is another thoughtless person who ought to know that you sometimes remain out late and make it up in sleep the next morning, or, at least, that there are morning hours devoted to bathing and shaving.

The friend who has had trouble with her maid or her dressmaker and must tell some one all about it to the smallest detail is one of the worst bores.

A woman who writes the cunningest stories about babies had to have her telephone removed, because in one day she received the following calls:

Six invitations to afternoon teas and three to dinners from friends who tried to argue with her when she said that business engagements prevented acceptance.

Two calls from women she had never seen, but who liked her stories and wanted to entertain her as guest of honor at social functions.

Three calls from tourists hailing from her own town, whose names she had never heard, but who had followed her "brilliant career with interest," and now longed to meet her personally.

Two calls from an agent from a bonding company who was determined to talk investments to her.

Conservative women will tell you that the telephone is rapidly destroying all their reserve and most delicate of social customs. Girls who would never think of invading a man's office or store will call him up by telephone, interfere with his work and arouse his ire by talking polite inanities during business hours. Of course, when a man's love—but then very few are.

DISSERTATION ON APPLES.

Mr. E. D. Pearsall Tells of Three Varieties and Their History.

(Special Star Corresponuence.)

Rocky Point, N. C., July 22.—I am sending you under separate cover three samples of apples grown in my orchard on "Greater Rocky Point." The large, green variety is the "Old Horse," long and favorably known as the finest all-purpose apple grown in North Carolina—the ne plus ultra, the sine qua non, the seek-no-further. I found them growing last week on the mountain side and in gorges on Black Mountain. They grew equally as well, possibly larger in Piedmont North Carolina and I have grown them in Eastern North Carolina (Duplin county) to be five inches in diameter. For cider, vinegar, fried, stewed, baked, roasted, dried or raw, they absolutely have no superior. When pulled from the tree and placed in a cool room, they impart an odor and tickle the palate as no other Summer apple. Unfortunately of late years the trees are afflicted with a black scab or rot in the fork where the limbs branch off. The grafted or budded tree of this variety seems to be almost worthless on this account. I know of some trees that were started from 'suckers" (sprouts), that yet bear tolerably full crops.

The striped apple is known locally as the "Westbrook Apple" and was originated by Mr. Jackson Westbrook, of Harrison Creek, Pender county. For cider, fry and apple dumplings, it's hard to beat and is extremely prolific. I imagine it is a seedling of the "Summer Queen," whose characteristics it closely resembles.

The large, red apple is known and catalogued as the "King Dickson," locally as the "Queen" (a misnomer). It was originated by a forbear of mine, Mr. William Dickson, of Duplin county, who, when a young man, about 1790, visited Old Man Jimmy King, on Six Runs, Sampson county, when a quarterly meeting was being held. Mr. King was an uncle of U. S. Vice President Wm. R. King. He (Mr. James King), made famous apple brandy that was not tapped until it had reached its fifth year when it became in the vernacular of the day, 'mellow." Mr. Dickson carried home some red apples and planted the seed, fruit grew therefrom and he named it the "King Dickson," fitting name for such an apple.

The fruit was brought to New Hanover by Mr. James McIntire, an uncle of Mr. Motier McIntyre, of Wilmington, and has been well scattered as it grows from North Carolina to Texas. It seems to be immune from "fire blight," is a sure bearer and in point of flavor is sweet from the time the bloom drops until maturity. Mr. W. O. Johnston, on Harrison Creek, has a tree that has borne 60 consecutive crops.

This is the famous old "Love Apple" that was used by bashful lovers in the old "State of Duplin." When going to see their best girl, they would present her with an even dozen red "King Dickson," and to see the girl's pearly teeth tackle the red apple's cheek was enough to make "love as hot as Summer's time." When the apple was eaten the seed were counted and it was thus: "One seed, I love"; two, I love; three, I love, I say; four, I love with all my heart; five I cast away; six, he loves, seven, she loves; eight, both love; nine, he courts; ten, he tarries; eleven, they dilly-dally; twelve, they marry." Of course, it didn't take very skilful manipulation on the part of the rustic swain to count the seed just as he wished them counted (much easier than counting election returns), especially if both sides were willing. Alas those sweet old days are gone. The girls and the apples too are mighty night gone.

Sic transit gloria mundi.

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT.

Displays Shown in Nearly Every State National Exhibitions.

New York, July 22.—Exhibitions, showing in graphic form the prevention of consumption, have been shown in every State in the United States, except Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, and Wyoming, and also in most of the Canadian provinces, and in Mexico, Porto Rico and Cuba, according to a bulletin issued today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The bulletin also shows that 25 States and 16 cities have permanent and traveling exhibits besides the two operated by the National Association itself, the total number of such displays being over 200, including about 150 small school exhibits.

The first tuberculosis exhibit in America was shown by the Maryland Tuberculosis Commission in January, 1904. In 1906 there were four such exhibits. Today practically all of the larger cities of the country have such displays, and in 25 States comprehensive campaigns have been carried on with them. These exhibits are visited annually by millions of people.

The American Tuberculosis Exhibition of the National Association is completing six years of continuous service, during which time it has been shown under three flags, in the United States, Mexico and Canada, and has been displayed in 21 States, including every Southern State east of the Mississippi, except West Virginia, Maryland and Delaware. The Western Tuberculosis Exhibit of the National Association, just closing its season in Butte, Mont., has been shown in Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Idaho, Utah and Montana.

As a result of the general educational campaign through the various exhibitions on tuberculosis, millions of pieces of literature have been distributed; millions of people shown how to prevent consumption; and several States and cities have been roused to take legislative action against this disease.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

Great Activity in South at Present — Good Roads Movement Spreading Everywhere—Industrial Undertakings in Dixie.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Baltimore, July 31.—The activity in State, county and municipal improvements throughout the South is reported by the Manufacturers' Record of this week to be one of the most interesting phases of Southern upbuilding. There is more work of this kind under way and projected than ever before, and experts familiar with what is being done in different sections of the country say that the South is relatively doing more work of this character than any other section.

The good roads movement is spreading everywhere, and unusual activity is seen in actual construction of roads and in the voting of money for road improvement. The road-making campaign by county and State authorities, so pronounced in every part of the South, is matched by the activity in street improvement work, in the erection of public buildings, and the construction of sewerage systems and waterworks by counties and cities. Hundreds of smaller towns heretofore content to do without modern sewerage systems and waterworks are, by reason of increasing wealth and the general recognition of the importance of such improvements, actively at work building or planning for such betterments. Railroad and industrial activity continues to make some advance, notwithstanding the midsummer season. The first dock built at any Southern port designed expressly for the handling of iron ore, will be constructed by the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railroad, at Port Bolivar, Texas, with a view to handling Texas iron ore which, as recently announced, is to be developed on a large scale for shipment to Atlantic coast furnaces. This dock is designed to have a capacity for handling 80 cars of iron ore per 10-hour day.

Among other industrial enterprises of importance reported during the week are the following:

Madera Land & Lumber Company Dr. F. S. Pearson, president, New York, was reported as having decided to build at El Paso, Texas, a $500,000 plant for manufacturing sash, doors, boxes and interior finish, and a $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 plant for manufacturing wrapping paper from the waste of the mill.

Dixon-Smith Engineering Company, St. Louis, Mo., prepared preliminary report for waterpower-electrical plant on Red River, near Higden, Ark.; cost estimated at $750,000; construction will form reservoir of 5 square miles, drain 1,150 square miles and develop 10,000 horsepower; dam to be of concrete, 50 feet high by 700 feet long.

Forest Products Chemical Company, Memphis, Tenn., was incorporated with $100,000 capital stock to manufacture acetate of lime, wood alcohol, charcoal and wood tar oils; will erect buildings costing $15,000 for initial plant.

W. M. Smith, John Odell, David Cannon, Concord, N. C., and associates, will organize company capitalized at $200,000, to build cotton mill.

Black Mountain Coal Company, Pineville, Ky., will develop 1,700 acres of Harlan county land, and plans daily capacity of 800 tons of coal.

Beggs Pipe and Foundry Company, Birmingham, Ala., was incorporated, with $50,000 capital stock, to manufacture cast iron pipe and kindred products.

C. E. Lewis, Pittsburg, Pa., J. R. Hungerford, Roanoke, Va., and associates, purchased 10,000 acres of land near Roanoke, and will develop for apple orchards.

Pioneer Coal Company, Kettle Island, Ky., was organized by Louisville capitalists; purchased Edgemont Coal Company's property of 5,000 acres and East Tennessee Coal Company's property of 5,000 acres, and East Tennessee Coal Company leases on coal lands; new company will thoroughly develop—beginning with driving four entries and erection of tipple.

Olive Hill Fire Brick Company, Olive Hill, Ky., was chartered with $400,000 capital stock, to manufacture fire brick and similar products, by Charleston, W. Va., capitalists.

King Lime and Fertilizer Company, Brevard, N. C., recently incorporated with $250,000 capital stock, plans to construct three mile railway and install about six perpetual lime kilns with one or more large stone crushers and accompanying equipment; machinery to cost about $125,000.

Swift & Company, Chicago, Ill., have awarded contract for erection of buildings of concrete construction, costing about $70,000, for fertilizer plant at Harvey, near New Orleans, La.; previously announced.

Osceola Fertilizer Company, Jacksonville, Fla., awarded contract for the erection of buildings that will be equipped with machinery for annual capacity of 30,000 tons of fertilizer.

American Machine & Manufacturing Company, Charlotte, N. C., will increase capital stock by $75,000 and establish general manufacturing plant at Greenville, S. C.

Uwarra Mining Company, Candor, N. C., was incorporated with $100,000 capital stock to develop mining properties.

Central of Georgia Railway, Savannah, Ga., was reported as having appropriated over $100,000 to construct creosoting plant at Macon, Ga., but particulars have not been determined.

Pneumatic Tamper.

CRUSADE AGAINST HOOKWORM.

Progressive Counties Have Taken Up the Fight.

Raleigh, N. C., July 22.—The opening last week of three dispensaries and one hospital for the free examination and treatment for hookworm disease marks a new development in the campaign against hookworm disease. Even though 21,000 victims of the disease have already been treated, it has been found that many sufferers who have the disease fail for one cause or another to seek treatment. As the expulsion of the worms and the cures which follow treatment afford the best means for dispelling such apathy, the need of temporary dispensaries for the free examination and treatment of the disease has been great. Having reached the limit of frauds available for North Carolina, the Hookworm Commission of the State Board of Health laid the situation before the officials of several counties. Though a large number of the counties asked for the dispensaries, offering to provide the financial aid, the work could begin in only four counties, as only four physicians to direct the county campaigns were available. The four counties securing the first dispensaries are Robeson, Sampson, Columbus, and Halifax.

Four or five places in a county have been selected, usually school houses, widely separated, but accessible to the people, and on one day of each week a medical hokworm specialist and a laboratory expert will be present to make free axamination for all who come, and to give free treatment to all who are found infected. After four to six weeks the experts will move on to the next county which has prvided the necessary financial aid. Every cured person and his friends will prove themselves valuable allies in carrying on the campaign for better health and sanitary conditions. The hospital will differ from the dispensaries in that they will be stationary for a week or more, will consist of tents, and be provided with cots, so that the patients may stay ver night and take the treatment under the direction of the physician in charge. This plan of campaign is meeting with the heartiest support of county boards of health, and education; and the county commissioners seem enthusiastic. It meets the approval of the local physicians, and has been endorsed by the State Medical Society.

"Help the Poor Boy."

To the Editor of The Patriot:

About 1820 a young preacher spent a night with an Onslow farmer. During the night he heard some loud talking and asked the farmer what it meant. The farmer replied: "A poor fellow near by is starting to make turpentine and thinks he could make a fortune if he had a pair of oxen."

The preacher asked: "Did you let him have the oxen?"

"No, he has no money to pay for them and may never have," was the reply.

Handing him the money, the preacher said: "Send the young man the oxen and let him make his fortune."

The preacher went to Chapel Hill and was a professor there till 1849, when he was made Bishop of Mississippi. The turpentine boy made his fortune. I saw it in Brunswick county in 1859. He had a large plantation, many slaves, horses, mules and cattle. He paid me $50 a year for preaching one sermon a month to his slaves. His oldest son graduated at Chapel Hill in 1866, and later was governor of North Carolina.

I think Daniel Russell and Bishop Green never met, but they loved each other. In their later days, many princely presents went from North Carolina to Mississippi. A. D. BETTS.

A RURAL NECESSITY.

Farmers' Phones Save Life and Afford Protection to Residents.

(Thomasville Times-Enterprise.)

Twice within the last month has the telephone on farmers' lines proven its value in Thomas county. About three weeks ago a negro cut his foot almost off with an axe. He lay in the woods bleeding profusely from the wound and unable to summon assistance. Mr. Quarterman, who lives four miles from the city, found him and summoned a physician over the telephone. In 15 minutes from that time medical aid had arrived and a life was saved thereby.

Two weeks later the same house was attacked by two men and an entrance into the room of the young ladies attempted. On this occasion, likewise a near neighbor and the local authorities from Thomasville were summoned and were on the scene with blood hounds a half hour after the affair occurred.

These are but two of the many instances where farmers' line phones are proving useful. These many occasions are demonstrating more than any one thing that the farmer needs a telephone, for the protection of his family, his business interests and the health and sometime the lives of those who are dear to him.

We are glad to see that the farmers of this county are beginning to realize fully the importance of this feature of public service and that they are endeavoring to take advantage of the splendid opportunity to place a doctor, an officer of the law, or, in fact, the whole of the county within his reach at a moment's notice. It will save him untold anxiety, many trips to distant places and other things too important to neglect for the small pecuniary outlay it will entail.

We would like to see every farmer's home connected with this line. They show an evidence of their good judgment, discretion and sense when they have one installed.

YEAR BOOK ISSUED BY MASSENGALE AGENCY

Contains History of Many Great Advertising Campaigns in South.

In celebration of their 15th anniversary, the Massengale Advertising agency has just issued an unusually attractive and interesting "Year Book." This book contains the history of some of the most successful advertising campaigns ever conducted in this territory, with the history of firms that have grown up with the Massengales, which is the oldest, as well as the largest advertising agency in the South, and have blazed the trail to prosperity for many leading Southern concerns.

The Year Book, which is beautifully illustrated and elaborately bound, contains a complete explanation of the science of advertising in all its varied branches. The methods and results of each department are shown individually, and the story of the successful expenditure of funds reaching in aggregate an almost incredible sum, makes a business romance well worth the reading.

The Massangale agency feels justly proud of the prominent part it has played in the commercial growth of the South.

The 15th anniversary Year Book will be sent to any firm or individual who is interested in advertising. Requests for a copy should be addressed to the Massengale Advertising Agency, of Atlanta, Ga.

THE IMMORTAL SIX HUNDRED

The Star very much regrets that the response to the movement for funds for the erection of a suitable manument to the "Immortal Six Hundred," Confederate officers and soldiers, prisoners of war who were confined in the stockade on Morris Island under fire of their own guns and were subsequently all but starved to death in Federal prisons has not been more general from those who should be interested in this commendable work.

Thus far contributions have been received from Private G. W. Brinkley, Company B, 16th Virginia Regiment, Mahon's Brigade, $1 and a very substantial contribution of $20.50, through Mr. Hamilton McMillan, of Red Springs, from the following veterans and friends who gathered at Wakulla, Robeson county, in annual celebration of the Battle of Bethel, on June 29th:

The Star would be glad to receive and acknowledge still further contributions to this fund and will forward the same through the Secretary of Cape Fear Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, to the Society of the Immortal Six Hundred, of which Maj. Ogden Murray, of Charleston, W. Va., is secretary.

There has recently been a revival of interest in the history of these "Immortals" and an original roster of the troops who endured this great hardship for a cause that they believed to be just is in possession of a number of survivors of these soldiers. One of these originals is in possession of Mr. F. N. Finks, of the A. C. L. general offices in this city, whose father Capt. Finks, of Virginia, was one of the bravest Confederates who remained true to the end. Another copy is in possession of Mrs. John L. Cantwell, of this city, whose husband the late Col. John L. Cantwell, was one of the prisoners who endured to the end. There were 111 of the North Carolina troops in the North Carolina contingent of the Immortal Six Hundred. Commenting on the question of numbers the Fayetteville Observer in a recent issue stated that it is a circumstance worth noting that North Carolina supplied about one-fifth of the armies of the Confederacy and that the Federal government observed the same ratio (111 out of 600) in selecting

GOSSIP OF FOREIGN CAPITALS

France's New Prime Minister—Municipal Improvements in Paris—Squadron at St. Petersburg and Comments of Press.

(By Associated Press.)

Paris, July 22.—France is intensely interested in the personality and career of her now prime minister, Joseph Caillaux, for among other things he is accredited with ambitions to the presidency when the present term of Fallieres expires. Mr. Caillaux has great wealth. He is the son of a distinguished father, Eugene Caillaux, who had a prominent place in politics after the Franco-Prussian war and was like his son, minister of finance.

Caillaux becomes premier at 48. He is the personification of tireless activity and work. In appearance he is clear-eyed and aggressive. There is a French saying that the great orators of the country seem almost always to come from the south. Caillaux is neither of the north or south, but like Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, was born in the Sarthe department in the west central district.

He is not an impassioned orator like the brilliant Briand, but he makes a strong business-like speech. Sometimes in the heat of interested discussion he becomes passionate, condemnatory, but invariably returns to the calm business man's standpoint.

The premier is a shrewd financier by heredity, training and experience. He is a radical who believes in a broad radical programme of progress. He is, for instance, the artisan of the income tax project which has been passed by the Chamber of Deputies, but which is now held up in the Senate. He believes in pensions for the workingmen and intends that this measure adopted by parliament shall be put into operation soon.

In a few words, the new premier might be summed up as a financier-statesman and as a millionaire radical working for social reform.

The Salon des Independents, which has just closed its doors for 1911, has had a more complete success than ever before, and quite justified its claim to the consideration of the art world.

Started as a revolt against the conditions of "official art" which ostracized Whitier, Monet, Degas, Renoir, and the whole Impressionist school as well as such measures as Purvis de Chavannes from the regular Salons, the Salon des Independents has no jury. On paying the dues of $5, anyone is at liberty to exhibit on a given wall space whatever he may choose, provided that the police raise no objection on the plea of decency or public order.

At first the only exhibitors were members of that advanced Post-Impressionists school which is headed by Matisse, whose effusions were grouped in one section popularity known as the "wild beast show;" worthy amateurs or semi-amateurs whose technical qualifications were insufficient to obtain for them an entry to the other Salons, and a small section of Russian revolutionaries who communicated their wildy symbolical dreams to canvas, with great conviction but little skill. Soon, however, the work of the few whose dangerous originality or bad luck had prevented them from obtaining a place in other exhibitions began to tell. Buyers appeared including the discriminating Under Secretary of State for Fine Arts who always acquires a certain number of pictures for the Government, and the astonishing fact became apparent that pictures were obtaining better prices than at the two consecrated Salons.

Now it is almost as hard to get into the Independents as into the Old and New Salons, for many painters of recognized worth and reputation are throwing in their lot with the new organization and abandoning their homes of "official art."

The march of municipal improvement has cost Paris her celebrated home of "roaring farce." The vast scheme of constructing new streets and extending others in the heart of Paris to relieve the congestion of traffic has led to the civic condemnation of the theatre Nouveautes located in the most trodden part of the Grandeur Boulevards.

The night of June 30 was historical among stage people and stage lovers for it was the occasion of the final production at the Nouveautes as well as the 1032d presentation of "Champignol Malgre Lui," a great popular success of the type which has kept all Paris laughing at this theatre for years.

The Nouveautes was opened in 1878 and after a troublesome early career launched into full success, soon becoming the recognized home of the farce comedy and mounting such favorite pieces as 'La Dame de chez Maxim's" and "Vous n'avez rien a declarer."

St. Petersburg, July 22.—Coming at an interval of forty-five years after the redoubtable trip of the monitor Miantonomah to Cronstadt, to return the friendly call of the Russian warships in New York in the critical times of 1863, Admiral Badger's squadron aroused old memories of nearly a century of Russo-American history, which had become a tradition in Russia, rudely shaken by events since 1903.

Admiral Badger's reference to the Miantonomoh at a banquet tendered by the Imperial River Yacht Club was the key-note of the evening, as it fittered the pride Russians take in having furthered the fortunes of the American Republic, to which they formerly habitually referred as "Our Trans-Atlantic friends."

The lack of adequate advertisement of the fleet's coming did not interfere with its developing into a fair success. Before the week of the squadron's stay was over, the Emperor and his Navy, with the people of Petersburg, had succeeded in making the guests feel thoroughly at home.

The emphasis laid upon the fact that the squadron's visit was only a service cruise may account for the scanty crop of impressions in the newspapers. Most Metropolitan dailies published articles of welcome, confining themselves to generalities, and to reporting the various fetes offered to the visiting Admiral, his officers and men. Some, like the Russkiya Vyedomosti of Moscow, which is the dean of the Russian liberal press, did not print a line of editorial comment upon the visit. Others took the view that its main object was a bid for Russian support against Japan, but opinions divided as to what Russia's reply to this bid should be.

The Petersburg Gazette declared that the international situation furnished a firm ground for a Russo-American rapproachment. "The East brings Russia and the United States together, just as Germany brought Russia and France and lately England, together," stated the Gazette. "Russian and American interests cannot be secured better than by a unity in their Asiatic policies." The general feeling that Russia should make good terms is voiced in an interview with Admiral Skrydloff, who warns Russia against "selling cheap."

The same idea is urged by the Zemshtchina, of Petersburg, a reactionary organ, which declined to believe that the visit was destitute of a political purpose, and says: "This visit is a reflection of a popular tendency in America in favor of seeking, in the shape of an international political combination, a counterpoise against the Japanese danger, with which America cannot think of coping unassisted. But the Yankees ought not to turn the heads of our diplomacy, and Russian support ought to be accorded only in exchange for real advantages to Russia, and not for the mere sake of fraternization between two nations which stand at the opposite pole of belief, national spirit and traditions."

Finally, a third view is that America is acting in bad faith, "flirting," with Russia, for the sake of exciting the jealousy of Japan, and of driving a better bargain with her. This view was defended at length in an article in the Peterburgski Vyedomosti, Prince Ukhtomski's newspaper. The writer further develops the idea that Russians and Americans are widely divergent national and racial types which have scarcely a trait in common, but the color of skin.

A similar variety of opinion was manifested by the press, in its treatment of the actual situation in the Far East, as affecting Russo-American relations. The Novoe Vremya, Russia's leading organ, sharply attacked American activity in Manchuria, during the squadron's stay, undeterred by a possible chance of discourtesy. It proceeded to explain that the situation had nothing to gain by vagueness on important outstanding question. In attacking and opposing the American invasion of Manchuria, Russia was combatting the same trusts and combinations of capital which the American people had long been trying to control.

On the other hand, the Retch, edited by Prof. Miliyukoff, took the opposite view of the matter, and argued that American proposals with regard to Manchuria are not directed against Russia, and that Russian diplomacy had missed a notable opportunity in not acquiescing in an American initiative in Manchuria which would fight Russia's battles for her.

HYDRO-AEROPLANE.

Machine Purchased for Navy Used for Many Stunts.

New York, July 22.—Lieut. G. T. Ellyson, the navy's only qualified aerial pilot, is having great fun with the new hydro-aeroplane just purchased for the navy of Glenn H. Curtiss, of Hammondsport, N. Y.

Lieut. Ellyson has made rapid strides within the last two weeks as an expert aviator and since his qualifying trial on July 2nd, has made several flights from Hammondsport to Penn Yan, and return, a distance of about 30 miles over Lake Keuka.

On a half dozen of these trips he has carried a passenger. On July 3rd he took Capt. Chambers, head of the Aeronautical Bureau of the navy, for an over-water trip of 50 miles, which Capt. Chambers declared was one of the most pleasant journeys of his life.

July 4th, Lieut. Ellyson carried Lieut. Towers, of the navy, who is under instruction at Hammondsport as a navy aviator, from Hammondsport to Penn Yan and return. Over a measured course the macshine made 16 miles in 18 minutes, carrying the two navy officers. On their return trip from Penn Yan, the hydro-aeroplane circled repeatedly the little lake steamer en route from Penn Yan to Hammondsport. It so happened that Lieut. Paul Beck, head of the army's aviation squad, was on the boat on his way to the Curtiss factory, at Hammondsport. Lieut. Ellyson knew this, and took occasion to show Lieut. Beck who was a fellow pupil at the Curtiss Training station at San Diego, Cal., last Winter, just how well a navy man could fly.

Lieut. Beck himself is an expert operator of the Curtiss machine, having been in charge of the aviation squad at San Antonio during the army manouvers last Spring, and was recently transferred to the army's aviation school at Washington, D. C.

"You certainly are some flyer," said Lieut. Beck when Liet. Ellyson greeted him at the landing at Hammondsport.

"Is that the new navy craft?" asked Lieut. Beck, pointing to the hydro-aeroplane, which had been drawn out of the water and stood near by.

Being assured that it was, he said, "I am certainly going to take that thing out for a trip on this lake tomorrow."

"You won't know how to fly that machine," said Lieut. Ellyson, "That is a navy craft, and a land-lubber aviator like you could not operate it."

"Perhaps I couldn't make those fancy dives you made coming up the lake, nor those splashes like a duck which you were showing off," said Lieut. Beck, "but I can certainly fly that thing, and I will most surely do it."

"I will take you for a spin tomorrow morning at 5 o'clock," said Ellyson to Beck, "and show you how she works."

CHILDREN'S ILLS IN SUMMER

The hardest period of a child's life is during the heated term. It is then that the little men and women become so subject to stomach and bowel troubles. With one it manifests itself in the form of obstinate constipation, with another the very reverse—diarrhea. One is as bad and as dangerous as the other. Constipation makes the child lose appetite and sleep, makes it languid and sickly-looking. Diarrhea weakens it and destroys appetite and energy. Piles, pimples, eruptions, itch, worms, etc., follow in the train until many a mother feels that her child is indeed very ill. But these are all troubles that can be easily cured. The child needs a few doses of a remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the grand laxative and tonic. Parents can make no possible mistake by giving it Syrup Pepsin, as the chances are always in favor of the child needing a laxative. It is sold in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00, and any druggist can supply you. It cannot be mentioned too strongly that parents should look closely after the welfare of the children during the hot months. If you would like to try it before buying send your address for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE to

There are people who go about the world looking for slights, and they are necessarily miserable for they find them at every turn—especially the imaginary ones. Few men know how to live. We grow up at random, carrying into mature life the merely animal methods and motives which we had as little children. The likeness and the contrast between the words of the secretary and those of the ex-President illustrate the position at which the world has arrived with regard to universal peace. Everybody wants it.

KING COTTON.

Editor Wade Harris Gives Interesting Figures of State's Yield.

Robeson county is the greatest cotton producing county in North Carolina, its 1910 corp having amounted to 62,944 bales. Johnston is next, with 36,254 bales and Mecklenburg is third, with 33,669 bales. The production in the big eastern counties is surprisingly small in comparison. For instance, Halifax raised only 23,315 bales and Northampton still less—11,559. Sampson's production amounted to 16,091 bales, against 25,819 for the little county of Scotland. Wayne county comes along with 26,315 and Wilson with 24,309. Coming nearer home, Rowan county does not seem to be awake to the possibilities of cotton growing, its production being 9,826 bales. Stanly is even poorer, with 8,514. Flanking these counties, Union grows 28,355 bales and Cabarrus 12,147. Anson produces 24,371 bales, Catawba, could it spare the wheat and potato land, could easily grow four times 7,887 bales. Gaston ought to do better than 14,852. That county and Richmond are almost a tie as cotton producers. Richmond's figures are 14,539. Guilford county, where cotton melts into tobacco raised 310 bales last year. North Carolina's cotton crop last year amounted to 774,752 bales, valued at a fraction under sixty million dollars.

In 1910 the production of cotton in all the States except Georgia and Louisiana showed an increase over 1909. Oklahoma and North Carolina made an especially good showing for 1910, each State having not only a greater production than for 1908, the former by 35.7 per cent and the latter by 9.6 per cent., but also the airgest crop ever produced. The crop in South Carolina in 1910 nearly equaled in number of bales its crop of 1908, and exceeded in production for any other year. The Texas crop in 1910 was more than half a million bales larger than in 1909, but did not reach the dimensions attained in 1908, 1906 or 1904. The unstable conditions of cotton production in Texas is disclosed by the fact that the State showed a decline of 44.9 per cent. in 1907, compared with 1906, when the largest crop that it ever produced was grown, and an increase in 1908 of 65.7 per cent. over the crop of 1907, while in 1909 the crop decreased 33.4 per cent from that of the preceding year and in 1910 increased over that of 1909 by 21.7 per cent. This State produced 26.4 per cent of the total crop of the country in 1910; 25.3 per cent in 1909, 28.8 per cent in 1908, 20.8 per cent in 1907 and 31.5 per cent in 1906.

The value of a 500-pound bale of cotton, including the value of the seed, was $87.15 for the past season, compared with $50.37 for 1904, and with $30.22 in 1898. To the producer of a crop of 20 bales this means that whereas he realized $604 in 1898, he received $1,743 in 1910, which increase, notwithstanding a greater cost of production, at the present time, measures the difference between a mere existence and a comfortable and independent living.

FOREST INSECTS.

War on Beetle That is Killing the Pine.

Washington, D. C., July 22.—The United States Department of Agriculture, through its Bureau of Entomology, issued a circular letter on June 14th, calling attention to a threatened outbreak of the Southern pine beetle, a bark boring insect, which caused such enormous damage to healthy and living timber in the Virginias during the years of 1890-93.

Replies to this circular from different sections of the South, and investigations by experts in some of the infested areas may result in widespread depredations and the loss of millions of dollars worth of pine.

The circular stated that a central point in the South was to be selected for the establishment of a Forest Insect Field Station.

This station is now an actual fact, having been established at Spartanburg, S. C., for the purpose of securing first-hand information on the character and extent of the trouble and of giving direct free instruction to timber owners on the most economical and effectual methods with which to meet the danger.

Special emphasis will be placed on the fact that a danger to one is a danger to all and a plea will be advanced for concentrated action.

Liquid Glue.

An excellent cold liquid glue is made as follows: Dilute 2 to 2½ parts crude nitric acid with 40 to 50 of water, soak in this 25 parts of glue for twenty-four hours and then heat the mixture until it is homogenous. The quantity of acid used depends on the quality of the glue.

IN THE WORLD OF AVIATION

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, July 22.—Glenn H. Curtiss has retired as a public exhibiton flier. He made his farewell appearance at Winona Lake, Ind., on July 14th, where he gave a demonstration of his hydro-aeroplane.

Mr. Curtiss has been trying to retire as an exhibition flier for the past year. In fact he discontinued public flying after his appearances in San Francisco and Los Angeles last Winter, but the development of the hydro-aeroplane in his experiments at San Digo made it necessary for him to demonstrate that machine, as until recently he had no aviators who could operate it. A number of contracts for the hydro-aeroplane and Curtiss were made early in the Spring, and the last of these he had just filled at Winona Lake. Hereafter he will not appear in public exhibitions, and th only acensions on which he will go up in an eroplane are the necessary demonstrations of machines which he is building or may build for the United States government at his factory at Hammondsport, N. Y.

The Curtiss aviators, Lincoln Beachey and Hugh Robinson, appeared in Rochester on July 14th and 15th, under the auspices of the Rochester Herald and in connection with the Shriners convention. Notwithstanding the fact that the international aviators had preceded the Curtiss flyers at Rochester by only three days, the bi-plane people drew a crowd of 3,000 the first day and almost twice that number the day following. Beachey's fancy flying and Robinson's altitude work were the features.

Eugene Ely continues to flit about the Pacific coast, having gone from Reno, Nev., where he flew on July 4th, the first time an aeroplane had appeared in Nevada, to Baker City, Oregon, and thence to British Columbia. Ely appears in Seattle on July 20th, 21st and 22nd, together with Hugh Robinson, on the occasion of the Potlach Carnival. Mr. Robinson will fly both the aeroplane and the hydro-aeroplane at Seattle, making a flight from Lake Washington across the city of Puget Sound.

James J. Ward filled a very successful date at Wichita, Kansas, on July 4th, and has just closed a visit to the Curtiss factory at Hammondsport in order to fill dates at Hastings, Neb., Mason City, Iowa, Austin, Minn., and Bessimer, Michigan, in the order named.

Glenn H. Curtiss will build a special machine to compete in the next contest for the Grand Aviation Prize which Henry Wyman recently won in England and will bring to this country. Mr. Curtiss made this announcement a few days ago. He believes that American aeroplane builders will be able to hold the prize in this country, claiming that they can build machines that are quite as speedy and much safer than the French monoplanes, which have had the field to themselves recently as regards speed.

Lincoln Beachey, the Curtiss aviator, who made the thrilling and sensational flight over Niagara Falls recently, gave the people of Williamsport, Pa., a series of thrills on July 7th and 8th, when for more than a half hour he was lost in the mountains surrounding the aviation field. In order to extricate himself for the maze of mountains Beachey soared to an altitude of 8,500 feet and was lost to sight of the spectators for fifteen minutes. He also made several ten-mile circles over the mountains and executed a series of spirals and volpanes that stirred the crowd, most of whom had never seen an aeroplane before.

One of the most successful aviation exhibitons held in the South was that at Mayfield, Ky., on Saturday, July 7th and 8th, when Hugh A. Robinson, the Curtiss birdman, thrilled a crowd of more than 10,000 persons by a flight over the city and surrounding hills, reaching a 4,000 feet altitude. One of the interesting features of this meet was the fact that thousands of farmers from surrounding towns and hamlets and from the mountains for a radius of one hundred and fifty miles came to Mayfield in variegated vehicles. Included in this hodge-podge of locomotion were several primitive ox-carts drawn by real, dyed-in-the-wool oxen. In some instances families of from six to ten rode to Mayfield in these carts from points twenty and thirty miles distant. Many of them had never seen even a baloon, much less an eroplane, and their amazement at the "flying machine" was wonderful to behold. After Robinson had made several circuits of the field one elderly sceptic turned to his wife and declared: "Nancy, about half these dern fools believe that thing can fly."

At Cairo, Ill., recently Hugh A. Robinson, after flying over three States, two rivers and three counties, had a narrow escape from death when a gust of wind struck his machine as he was making a dip under the Illinois Central bridge over the Ohio river, which is only 75 feet above the water. The wind caught the machine and carried it within less than five feet of the bridge. Robinson was about to drop the machine to the river when he succeeded in turning safely from the steel structure. He flew over parts of the States of Illinois, Kentucky and Missouri, the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and the counties of Alexander, Mississippi and Ballard.

Beckwith Havens, a young society man of New York, and scion of a distinguished Knickerbocker family, has for the past few weeks been under the instruction of Glenn H. Curtiss at Hammondsport, N. Y. Mr. Havens has proved to be a most apt and enthusiastic pupil. The young man expects to make his debut as an aviator in a Curtiss machine in the near future. He has practically mastered all the intricacies of aviation. He has made numerous flights at the Hammondsport training grounds, and is, in the opinion of Mr. Curtiss, well equipped temperamentally and otherwise to become an expert pilot of the aeroplane.

On file at the offices of Glenn H. Curtiss are several contracts for proposed aviation meets in Western towns which contain a clause stipulating that in case crops are not up to expectations the meet is to be cancelled. This clause is inserted for the purpose of protecting both the local promoter and the exhibition company from loss, for it is a well-known fact that when crops are bad, money is scarce among the farmers. The success of many aviation meets held in the West during the next few months will depent entirely on crop conditions. Therefore, the birdmen will get their feed only when crops are good.

THE NORTH AND SOUTH.

Relative Strength of Armies and Odds Against Confederacy.

Editor the Atlanta Journal.

Dear Sir:—Thinking that it will be of interest to the many Confederate soldiers, now gathered in your hospitable city, I enclose statistics which show that the South with 600,000 soldiers withstood an invasion of 2,778,304 men for four years.

Sasserave G. Lee, a recognized authority on Civil War statistics, prepared and published in a Virginia paper the following interesting table showing the numerical superiority of the Northern army over that of the South during the Civil War.

His figures show that the total enlistments in the Northern army were 2,778,304, as against 600,000 in the Confederate army.

The foreigners and negroes in the Northern army aggregated 680,917, or 80,917 more than the total strength of the Confederate.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF LAND.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned mortgagee, under and by virtue of the power of sale, contained in a certain mortgage deed, executed to the undesigned by C. H. Carter and his wife, A. P. "The Methodist" Endorses Milam.

The Methodist has never taken any stock in, or pinned its faith to patent medicines. Indeed, many of hem are fakes of the highest order. Revenue for no real benefit has been the policy of the promoters of these "cure alls". There has been introduced in Danville recently a medicine that, if the testimony of some of our best citizens can be accredited, has real merit, and is known as The Milam Cure.

The effect of this medicine upon some of these who have been induced to try it has been marvelous as a restorer of health. The company who manufactures this remedy that has such a tremendous sale is composed of gentlemen of the highest social and moral standing in Danville. We feel that in placing the advertisement of this medicine before our readers we are rendering a service that will prove a blessing to suffering humanity.

This commendation is written without fee or reward upon the testimony of those who have been benefitted by the use of the MILAM remedy.

(E. G. Mosely in the Methodist.)

"THE BAPTIST" ENDORSES MILAM.

Milam is the name of a great medicine now being manufactured in Danville, and from the testimonials of some of our best citizens we can safely recommend it to our friends who are suffering with any of the diseases it proposes to cure. The men at the head of the company manufacturing this medicine can be relied on.—Rev. J. E. Hicks, in the Baptist Union.

Consumption Checked and in Early Stages, Cured by MILAM the great Reconstructive Tonic and Blood Renovator.

We do not set forth MILAM as a cure for consumption, but it has proven so beneficial to such patients that we believe, and are supported in our belief by a practicing physician, that MILAM will arrest incipient tuberculosis or consumption in its early stages. We know that it greatly benefits those in the advanced stages.

Scrofulitic Consumption.

City of Danville, State of Virginia—Towit:

I, Edmund B. Meade, Notary Jublic in and for the city of Danville, State of Virginia, do hereby certify that Abram Word, of Danville, Va., to me well known, did appear before me, and being duly sworn, deposeth and says as follows:

"For ten years prior to August, 1909, I was under the care of a regular physician. Last Spring this doctor told me he could do me no good, and I tried another for four months without receiving any benefit from him.

"In August, 1909, I began taking Milam, and am now able to do my work without difficulty, my appetite is good, and I can eat and digest my food.

"My trouble was said to be Scrofulitic Consumption, and I was wasted away to a shadow. I was so weak that I could hardly walk when I commenced on MILAM. I regard MILAM as a truly valuable remedy in all cases of blood trouble, whether eruptive, or proceeding from a lack of full, free circulation.

"I have recommended MILAM to about twenty of my friends, and so far as I have seen or heard from them, they all speak in the highest terms of it, and are recommending it to their friends.

"It was particularly beneficial to me in aiding digestion and building up an appetite.

(Signed.) "ABRAM WORD."

In witness to the above, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of my office, this 23rd day of March, A. D., 1910.

INTERESTING OLD NEWSPAPER

Copies of Cape Fear Herald and the Wilmington Chronicle Tell of the Old Days—Journalism in the Seventies.

Mr. J. H. LeGwin, of this city, has in his possession copies of two very interesting publications in the earlier days of Wilmington. One is a copy of the Wilmington Chronicle and North Carolina Weekly Advertiser, "printed by John Bellew, at his office, corner Market and Second streets," and of date, Thursday, May 5th, 1796, and the other is the Cape Fear Herald, published every Wednesday by Boylan & Ray, of date November 22nd, 1803.

The old papers are in good state of preservation and were found by Mr. LeGwin among the documents of his father, the late Mr. John LeGwin, for many years engaged in the printing business in this city. The "Chronicle," being of earlier date, is naturally the more interesting of the two journals, and is devoted almost exclusively on its front page to advertisements. The printing is rather antiquated and the Spanish "Letter S," is used, being very much like the latter "F." Two of the most interesting advertisements are those of lotteries, which apparently did good business in those old days. For one of these there were 168 prizes ranging from "a pair of coarse shoes" to a silver "mounted sword and belt." There were 500 tickets at $2 each. The "Washington Canal Lottery No. 1," for the purpose of raising $26,200 for the purpose of cutting a canal through the city of Washington, from the Potomac to the Eastern Branch Harbor. For this there was one prize of $20,000, one for $10,000 and a number for smaller amounts.

In those days Wilmington had passenger accommodations to Liverpool if the advertisement of the Ship Edward is to be believed. Isaac Howland was the master and the advertisement stated that the vessel will "sail this month." Further on it is stated: For passage only apply to Mr. Jeremiah Donovan or to the captain on board. N. B. The above ship has excellent accommodations for passengers.

Another advertisement offers for sale "Two tracts, patented in the year 1758; one of 400, the other of 500 acres, lying on the White Marsh on Waggamaw Swamp, in Bladen county, in a healthy situation, well timbered, fit for cultivation of Indigo, Indian corn and small grain! a clearing and some improvements on each. Aply to Edward Jones, attorney at law, who has original patents in his hands."

The same issue of the paper devotes a page to a full text of the "Treaty Between the United States and His Catholic Majesty," while practically the remainder of the paper is devoted to foreign correspondence. The one local item of news carries the story of the annual election for members of assembly for Brunswick county when Gen. Smith was chosen senator and W. E. Lord and Abraham Benzant as commoners. An election for representatives in Congress resulted as follows: William Henry Hill, 99; James Gillespie, 11; James Keenan, 00;, and Gabriel Holmes, 00.

The "Wilmington Prices Current" at that time will be interesting now. Spirits, third and fourth proof, $1.50 and $1.42 per gallon. Molasses 58 and 60 cents. Muscavado sugar 13 and 14 cents per pound. Coffee 29 cents. Salt 60 cents per bushel. Lumber, assorted, was $8 to $9 per thousand feet. Corn and peas were $1.33 per bushel.

Saddle and harness making was evidently difficult, as witness the following advertisement: "GEORGE REED, respectfully informs the public that he intends declining business in the course of the Summer, on account of the many difficulties he is obliged to encounter occasioned by backward payments. He cannot pass over in silence the gratitude he owes to those whose punctuality has hitherto been his support; and assures them that he shall not relax his endeavors to please during the short time he may continue in business.

"Having no other object to detain him but that of collecting what monies are due to him, in order to be enabled to make an honorable retreat, he trusts that that consideration alone will operate with those indebted to him as a sufficient incentive to discharge their respective accounts."

The Cape Fear Herald, of November 2nd, 1803, is a rather more pretentious journal of four pages, carrying on its first the proceedings in Congress, Monday, October 17th, the feature of which was the annual message of President Thomas Jefferson, which is given in full. This is a most interesting document in these days of billion dollar congresses. One item of the message says: "The sum of fifty thousand dollars, appropriated by Congress for providing gunboats remains unexpended. The favourable and peaceable turn of affairs on the Mississippi rendered an immediate execution of that law unnecessary; and time was desirable in order that the institution of that branch of our force migat begin on models the most approved by experienced."

Both Houses the same day "formed quorums"; the Senate elected John Brown, president pro tempore and the House of Representatives elected Nathaniel Macon speaker.

This was the eighth Congress and a list of members of the Senate and House is given by the Chronicle. The delegation from North Carolina was composed of Samuel D. Purviance, Nathaniel Macon, Willis Alston, Richard Sandford, James Holland, William Blackledge, Nathaniel Alexander, Joseph Winston, Marmaduke Williams, Thomas Wynns, William Kennedy and James Gillepsie. Wade Hampton was a member of the South Carolina delegation. On acocunt of a deadlock in the New Jersey Legislature over a division of election districts, no elections for candidates for Congress were held in that State, which is explained. The second page of the paper is given over entirely to routine Congressional proceedings with the exception of half a column of local shipping news at the port of Wilmington. One item is: "The brig Alexis, Capt. Allison, arrived here on Monday last, in 40 days from Greenock. There came passengers about 40 Highlanders, all in good good health."

News did not travel fast those days. Another item: "The ship John Jones, Capt. Allan, in 47 days from Liverpool. Capt. Allan brought London papers to the 13th of September. We have been only able to procure one of the 9th. On persuing it we do not observe that it contains an article worth extracting."

Fever and epidemics were not new even then. For instance it is chronicled: "The New York Committee of Health report 1 death and 24 new cases of prevailing fever for the last 24 hours. The Committee of Health of Alexandria report 3 deaths in 48 hours."

The Wilmington "Prices Current" in that year, 1803, are also interesting. lumber is quoted $10 to $12 per thousand; dressed staves $23 per thousand; shingles $2.25 to $2.50 per thousand; rice $4.75 per cwt.; pork, $14 per barrel; flour $8 per barrel; cotton 15 to 18 cents per pound; tar, $2.50 per barrel; turpentine $4 to $4.25 per barrel; butter 20 cents per pound; sugar 12 to 15 cents per pound; rum, 2nd and 3rd proof, $1 to $1.25 per gallon; coffee 30 cents per pound.

The same issue of the paper contains an advertisement of the late Mr. Jos. G. Wright and A. J. DeRosset qualifying as executors of the last will and testament of John Burgwin and a notice of the sale of the Hermitage tract, near Castle Haynes with property at southwest corner of Second and Market streets and on northwest corner of same streets.

Hooper & Mitchell advertise for freight or charter to some port in Great Britain or Ireland the "staunch and well-found American ship" Alexander, burthen about 2,00 barrels. She was then in the port of Charleston, S. C., "and" be round here in a few days in the event of a freight offering." The same advertisement states that the subscribers have for sale "A Quantity of Bar Iron and Humhums." John Lord also offers for freight or charter the brig Maria.

Anderson & Jones advertise that they have just received in addition to their former stock "An Assortment of Fall and Winter Goods from Liverpool and Glasgow" that they will dispose of at their store on Market street.

Liberal extracts are made in the same issue from the Charleston Courier and the Raleigh Sentinel.

The two old papers are very interesting and are prized highly by their present owner.

Two large bottles of Hessian rum 150 years old are among the latest finds of historical experts who are excavating in the ruins of old Fort Washington on the Hudson river just above Riverside drive, New York. The excavations are on the site of the Hessian barracks, in what was for a long time known as "Death gulch" from the large number of Hessians who fell in the rout of Washington's army from the heights. The rum bottles were found 12 feet under ground.

THE FIGHT ON DOCTOR WILEY

Doped Food Interests After His Scalp —Interesting Gossip at Washington Anent the Case—Some Inside History.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Washington, D. C., July 22.—"Will the doped-food interests get Wiley's scalp this time?" This is the question of the hour.

Never did a little benzoate of soda set up such a chemical reaction. Resolutions are being introduced in Congress calling for information, and the combat has raised a dizzy daze of dust in administration circles. People are not talking about reciprocity, but about Wiley. There is not the slightest misunderstanding about the case. The enemies of the pure food laws do not give a rap for Dr. Rusby, whose technically irregular connection with the payroll furnished the "committee on personnel with an excuse for asking that Dr. Wiley "be given an opportunity to resign."

The Rusby case is nothing. It does not make a pretense of being anything more than a flimsy excuse, deliberately worked up by the food dopers, to get Wiley out of the way. It is a flank attack in the old war against the chief of the bureau of chemistry.

Many attempts to secure the dismissal of Dr. Wiley have been made during the past few years. They have not only failed, but the doctor has emerged strengthened in popularity after each contest. The people have the utmost faith in him, and even those "practical" politicians who are always ready to serve certain interests have been afraid to "break" Wiley on a plain issue. For a long time they have been looking for a reasonable excuse to attack him by subterfuge, and they seized upon the Rusby case with frantic eagerness.

Dr. Wiley has made many enemies and antagonized many interests in the course of his administration, but the users of benzoate of soda being perhaps the most vitally concerned, are naturally his most active enemies. The reason of their concern is easily understood. They can gather big profits from the use of the waste of canning factories in the manufacture of foods and sauces, but this waste is not usable unless it is preserved by some artificial means, benzoate of soda being preferred.

It is not merely a question as to the harmfulness of benzoate itself. It is a question of being able to use nauseous and unfit material.

The secretary of the American Health League in Ohio, in a bulletin issued October 25, 1909, describes a visit he made to a tomato canning factory, where he studied the methods of handling the waste and refuse, "consisting of skins, cores and rotten pulp." The tomatoes are handled during the short harvest season in cheaply constructed and shed-like buildings, usually in remote localities, "where proper sewerage and other sanitary facilities are unavailable."

"In spite of all these adverse conditions," he says, however, "the canned tomato product, quickly handled into its final containers, and thoroughly sterilized, as it is, is undoubtedly for the most part a wholesome article of food supply, and is rarely, in these days at least, subject to any artificial preservative treatment."

"But the waste! This," he continues, "is a most repulsive, nauseating mass of fermented, rotten garbage, consisting of peelings, cuttings and decayed and partly ripe tomatoes, loosely and carelessly handled. It is scooped up with shovels and buckets from the floors and afterwards is treated with a quantity of benzoate of soda, thereby protecting it from ultimate putridity. In other words, it is embalmed."

"In this condition," the bulletin goes on to say, "it is finally sold to food manufacturers who make it up into ketchups, soups, etc., which are plamed off on the public as being made from fresh, ripe, sound tomatoes, 'prepared with 1-10 of 1 per cent. benzoate of soda.' Dr. A. W. Bitting, of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a report of his investigation of ketchup making, states that the great bulk of tomato ketchup in the markets is made of this material."

These manufacturers are the fellows that Dr. Wiley has been after. In his work he has run down hundreds of violators of the law, who have been fined and their products confiscated and destroyed. In a bulletin issued June 16, 1911, by the Department of Agriculture, signed by Secretary Wilson, there is an account of seizure of "three consignments of tomato paste, totaling 202 barrels, shipped from a canning factory in New Jersey." The complaint charged that this tomato paste was adulterated, and "consisted of filthy, decomposed and putrid vegetable substances."

When the case came to a hearing the claimant of the products failed to appear, and the court ordered the tomato paste destroyed. This is only one instance in hundreds of Dr. Wiley's efficient work in behalf of the people. No wonder the doped food makers say that their industry is being "ruined," and their bitter fight on Wiley is not hard to understand.

But few people believe that they will succeed in having Dr. Wiley ousted on a technicality. He has protected the food of the people for twenty-five years against the fraudulent manufacturing interests. He has a thousand friends where he has one enemy, and it is not thought possible that President Taft, even at Wickersham's behest, will make so grave a political mistake as would be the ousting of Wiley on behalf of the benzoaters.

BEHALF OF DR. WILEY.

Womans' Clubs Support Pure Food Expert in Resolutions.

The following resolutions adopted by the Associated Clubs of Domestic Science have been forwarded to President Taft and Secretary Wilson:

Wheeras, Dr. H. W. Wiley, Chief of the Government Bureau of Chemistry, is one man in the government's service whom we know to be a really sincere friend to the people, in that he has always taken the part of the people in all controversies in which the public welfare is concerned, and

Whereas, Dr. H. W. Wiley, as the father of the National Food and Drug Act, has always been an earnest advocate of pure foods which certain manufacturing interests are trying to force us to eat; and

Whereas, it is known that the food adulterations have openly theratened to cause the dismissal of Dr. H. W. Wiley, and have caused the government to take his power from him by appointing the Referee Board to illegally usurp the functions belonging to Dr. Wiley's office, and by assigning the legal duties of Dr. Wiley's office to Solocitor McCabe; and

Whereas, since Dr. Wiley has been shorn of his power the food adulterators have flooded the country with their vile products, spreading disease and death among us; and

Whereas, Dr. Wiley, although shorn of his power to enforce the law, has nevertheless continued to expose food poisons and to warn the public against them, thus still making his influence felt as a power for good; Now, Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of the Associated Clubs of Domestic Science, representing Domestic Science organizations in all parts of the United States, do hereby earnestly implore you, the President of the United States the United States, to consider the prayers of the people who are being subjected to such distress at the hands of the food adulterators, and to not deprive us of a true friend that we, the people, have in the food law enforcement in Washington, and to not harken to the cries of the food adulterators who very naturally hate Dr. Wiley because of his service to the people, and be it further

Resolved, That we respectfully request that you look into the cause of the appointment of the Referee Board and other action that has been taken, presumably in the interest of the food adulterators, to rob Dr. Wiley of the power which rightfully belongs to his office, and, if the facts warrant, you restore to Dr. Wiley the full authority to his title, and permit him to enforce the National Food law so as to stop the adulteration of food; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to other women's clubs, and they be asekd to adopt these or similar resolutions, and try by all means to save the official head of the best friend the mothers and children have in Washington.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience —a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.
